—and Lead Us to Goa?

(In Bombay, India, families mourn over the bodies of 20 men dead. Mobs march the streets shouting, "Nehru, leave Delhi and lead us to Goa.")

In September, 1499, the spice-laden ships of Vasco de Gama reached Lisbon from Calicut, on the coast of Malabar.

It was the beginning of European contact with that distant, mysterious land. By 1503 that trade had grown until it seemed desirable for Portugal to control. From her colonies along the west coast of Africa, Adm. Alfonso Albuquerque brought his fleet and marines to Goa. He established Portuguese settlements at Goa, Malacca, Ormuz and the island of Socotra off the entrance to the Red Sea.

Control of the Indian Ocean was wrested from the Moslems. When the king of Persia sent for tribute, his messengers received bullets. Wise, scrupulously fair, the Indians liked him. Goa became a great city.

Sea Power

For roughly a century Portugal's sea power made her a giant in the world. Goa was the capital of the Portuguese empire. Even distant Ceylon was a part of the rich spice holdings. The Roman Catholic church established a bishopric in Goa and began building a magnificent cathedral—which yet stands. The city grew to include more than 200,000 persons.

For almost 100 years Portugal's supremacy of sea power was unchallenged. Fortunes were made. Goa was a magic word around the throne at Lisbon.

After 1600 the growing fleets of the Dutch and the British, coincident with the corruption and deterioration of the Portuguese officialdom, combined to reduce her as a power in Indian affairs.

Between 1595 and 1602, 15 Dutch expeditions sent men to battle in the Spice Islands. The Portuguese were driven out and the Dutch established themselves in Ceylon, Malacca, Java and at points along the Indian coast.

By 1600, men in London began to worry about the Dutch. The first British venture was into the Spice Islands. For 23 years an undeclared war raged and this one England lost—or abandoned. By 1624 the Dutch were in complete control of the islands.

The British then turned to India. There the fleet did the job. The East India company made treaties with the Mogul rulers, most permanent of the invaders to establish themselves in India. (Later the Moguls regretted those treaties.)

Dowry

The British also knew the art of marrying well. In 1600, Charles II received the great city of Bombay as part of the dowry of the Portuguese princess, Catherine of Braganza.

The trading companies kept patiently on. The Mogul authority declined. The Portuguese no longer counted. The Dutch were falling steadily behind. By the last years of the century they no longer held any Indian territory. The French, who had come late, never made much stir. The British, when they came to power, left them and Portugal to hold their small areas along the coast. The Portuguese and the Moguls had neglected sea power. The British never made that error.

Today Portugal insists she has no colonies, but that her Indian holdings are "integral parts" of her sovereignty.

Nehru, patient and guided by the "no violence" policy of Gandhi, tries to force Portugal to surrender her rule by diplomatic methods. The more nationalistic Indians (died on by the Communists, who try to discredit Nehru) have made "volunteer" marches into the Portuguese territories. This week 20 were killed when troops fired on them.

Washington is uneasy. Portuguese Goa does not make much sense. The White House would like to join with Nehru... but there are important American bases in the Azores—which are Portuguese islands.

So the mobs march, crying, "Nehru, quit Delhi and lead us to Goa." And women mourn their dead.

Alto School Warden Lauded as Probers Cite Minor Breaches

George Washington Pushed Into $50 Fine

DETROIT, Aug. 17 (AP)—Because he told a lie, George Washington had to pay a $50 fine today.

Police told Washington to move his car last Wednesday after a minor traffic collision and he asked for a push, saying his battery was dead.

"I gave him a push to get him started but he kept going," said Ptl. Gilbert Truax. "It took me three blocks to catch him."

Traffic Judge George T. Murphy, fining Washington for reckless driving, told him: "The father of our country would be mortified if he knew you were playing possum."

State Blasts Penn. Shield Of Fugitive

The refusal of Pennsylvania Gov. George M. Leader to honor Georgia request for extradition of a convicted murderer was termed Wednesday by Georgia's governor and attorney general "an open invitation" for every escaped convict to seek refuge in Pennsylvania.

In a strongly worded joint statement, Gov. Griffin and Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook termed Leader's action unprecedented. They said it "should come not only as an affront to the citizens of Georgia, but to every state."

MACON SLAYING

Edward Brown, Negro, convicted for the 1937 slaying of another Negro in Macon, was freed by a Philadelphia judge 10 days ago after Leader recalled the Georgia extradition warrant against him. Brown fled to Pennsylvania after escaping from a Georgia prison farm.

He was quoted by authorities as saying he did not want to return to the "Georgia chain gang." Chain gangs were eliminated in Georgia 12 years ago.

The Georgia officials said Leader set Brown free "without so much as even giving the state notice and a hearing on the application for recall."

JOINT STATEMENT

In their four-page statement Griffin and Cook asserted the Pennsylvania governor played politics in Brown's release. Leader, they said, joined forces with "Negro legislators and the fellow-traveling NAACP" to get his tax program through the Legislature. As an aftermath... it was immediately announced Brown would be released.

Ben Wiggins, executive secretary to Griffin, said Georgia has spent $10,000 in the Brown case.

Wet, Gasping Diane Creeps Into Virginia

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 17 (AP)—Wet and worrisome Diane, once a hurricane but now only an overgrown storm, swept into Virginia tonight—getting weaker by the hour in her overland journey after eight fierce days at sea.

Behind her in her trip northwest from the Carolinas the once-powerful 100 m.p.h. blow left only minor damage—most of it from higher than usual tides which flooded sections of towns in northeast North Carolina and rains which battered tobacco and corn crops hard hit by Hurricane Connie last week.

The Washington Weather Bureau stopped dignifying Diane with the name of "hurricane" in its 8:20 p.m. bulletin—issued as the storm was centered near Danville in Virginia's tobacco-growing southside. At that time the storm packed only 30 to 40 m.p.h. walls with gusts up to 50 m.p.h.—and was continuing to weaken as it moved toward the north-northwest at about 13 m.p.h.

The Weather Bureau said in its bulletin that Diane will "continue to gradually lose force as it continues toward the north-northwest at 13 to 15 m.p.h. during the next 24 hours. It is expected to fall rapidly as it moves through southwestern Virginia during the night

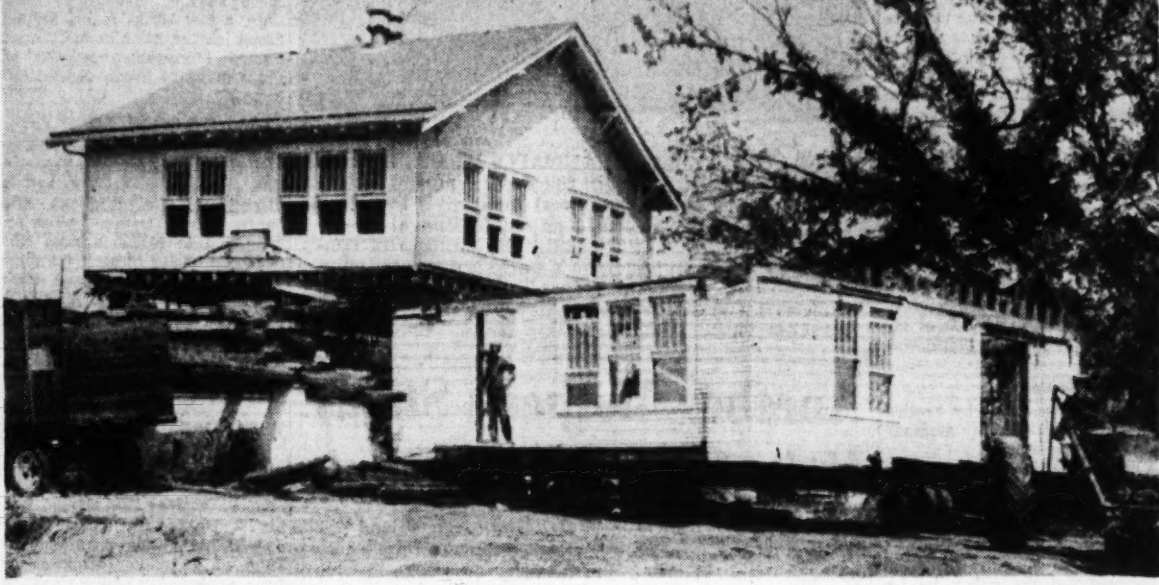

14 Pairs of Shoes Later, a Cook Girdling Globe Hits Rome, Footsore

ROME, Aug. 17 (AP)—Emilio Tourtois, a wandering cook from Nice, arrived in Rome today with sore feet.

He said he is walking around the world, and it has cost him 14 pairs of shoes and 301 pairs of socks to get this far.

Tourtois came via Spain, Portugal, Germany and Austria. Next he plans to go to Palestine. "It all started when I lost my job in a hotel," he said. At first, there was no particular reason for his wanting to make the walk around the world. But when a Nice newspaper heard about the plan, he said, it offered to buy him a restaurant if he could accomplish the tour in eight years.

He has been walking about six months.

"A HOUSE DIVIDED CANNOT..."—WICHITA, Kans., Aug. 17—Would anyone like a nice second-floor apartment? There is only one catch: There is no first floor under it. Owner E. V. Long already has scheduled the bottom half for a site nearby, but meanwhile the top half is left more or less up in the air.

Ike Code Orders PWs To Resist Brainwashing

By ANTHONY LEVIERO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—The United States, for the first time in its history, proclaimed today a definitive code of conduct for American servicemen while prisoners of war.

The code laid down a firm line against Communist brainwashing. It was hammered out of "home-forged" American principles in the Defense Department and implemented by an executive order signed by President Eisenhower in Denver.

The code consists of six articles in simple language that any American youth may understand.

The first sentence of Article 1 is "I am an American fighting man," and the last sentence of Article 6 is "I will trust in my God and in the United States of America."

Between these two tenets the American serviceman will pledge that he will never surrender of his own free will, that he will endeavor to escape if caught, as a prisoner he will not betray his fellow prisoners and he will refuse to give any information beyond his name, rank, serial number and date of birth.

PLEDGES FAITH But the serviceman pledges that even if he cracks up under brainwashing he will not betray his country and its allies by any disloyal statements, written or oral.

In the code there is no room for turncoats, but there is assurance of compassion and justice for those who yield only under torture.

The promulgation of the code ended public argument between the services and a national debate over what should be done about Americans who were brainwashed in Korea and who may receive barbarous treatment in any future war.

In a formal White House statement President Eisenhower put particular emphasis on the obligation the government will owe captured American fighting men in return for the Spartan code of conduct laid down for them.

"No American prisoner of war will be forgotten by the United States," his statement said. "Every available means will be employed by our government to establish contact with, to support and to obtain the release of all our prisoners of war."

NEW PROGRAM "Furthermore, the laws of the United States provide for the support and care of dependents of members of the armed forces, including those who become prisoners of war. I assure dependents of such prisoners that these laws will continue to provide for their welfare."

James C. Hagerty, his press secretary, said the code of conduct will begin a program to "fortify" American prisoners of war against such devices as brainwashing and forced confessions which were used by the Communists in the Korean War.

By the action of the commander-in-chief, a unified policy was applied to all three services. In

Solon Probe Indicates State Buying Favored Whitman Connection

Aide Relates Substituting Brand Names

By M. L. ST. JOHN

The State Purchasing Department Wednesday did not deny that it made substitutions for brand names of paper requested by two state agencies in order to divide up state business with a firm headed by George Whitman Jr.

The name of Whitman, head of the State School Building Authority and State Board of Education, was not mentioned as the Legislative Economy Committee questioned S. F. Skrine, assistant purchasing agent.

PINPOINTED BY MILLICAN

However, Atlanta Sen. Everett Millican pinpointed three instances in which he said the requests of state agencies had been changed by the Purchasing Department. And, in all three cases, he said, the orders went to Park Supply Co. or Phillips Sales Co.—which could not have provided the original requests.

Although Whitman's name was never mentioned in the hearing, the School Authority chairman is connected with both of these companies mentioned by Millican.

Skrine said he uses his own discretion to substitute agency requests when bids on the same quality of paper are the same.

"I try to divide up the business among all the paper houses," Skrine added. "If I didn't, one paper house might get all the state's business, with many state agencies specifying a particular brand name. I try to buy by quality, not brand names."

SPECIFIC INSTANCES?

While outlining his general policy as in conformity with Millican's charges, Skrine said he didn't recall the specific instances cited by Millican. He said he handles thousands of purchases a month and does not keep them all in mind.

Millican asked Skrine if an established Georgia business firm, which pays state and local taxes, should not get preferential treatment over a "broker who has to go out of the state to buy the paper." Millican said Park Supply Co. filled an order from a Henley Paper Co. branch in North Carolina—although Henley has a large branch here in Atlanta and was not given a chance to bid.

Skrine replied he did not know where the firms had to go to get their products.

He disagreed with Millican's

Intercity Bus Fare Minimum Rises Sept. 1

A five-cent increase in minimum cash fares has been approved—effective Sept. 1—for seven intercity bus companies.

The Georgia Public Service Commission Wednesday granted the hike from 20 to 25 cents for the Modern Coach Corp., Southeastern Motor Lines, Inc.; Tennessee Coach Co., Southeastern Greyhound, Atlantic Greyhound, Service Coach Line, Inc., and Service Bus Lines, Inc.

Dave Benson of the PSC staff said the higher fares affect only one-way minimum cash fares and cash roundtrip fares.

Benson said the Atlanta-Marietta Line was not included in the minimum cash fare increase.

Korea PW Toll Worst Since 1776

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—American prisoners of war in the Korean conflict "cannot be found wanting" in military virtues, the Defense Department PW committee held in its report today.

The committee pointed out that the "ghastly death toll" in Korean prison camps "was the worst since the Revolutionary War."

Of the 7,190 American servicemen taken prisoner in the Korean conflict, 2,730 or 38 per cent, died in enemy camps.

In World War II the Axis powers captured 129,701 Americans of whom 14,090, or 10.9 per cent, died in enemy prison camps.

The PW-committee said that, "a few statistics may prove reassuring to anyone who thinks the American forces are undermined by Communist propaganda in Korea."

Of the 4,428 Americans who survived Communist imprisonment, only a maximum of 192 were found chargeable with offenses against their comrades or the United States.

"Or, put it another way," the committee's report said, "only one out of 23 American PWs was suspected of serious misconduct."

In contrast, the report went on, the latest FBI statistics show that one in 15 persons in the United States has been arrested and fingerprinted for the commission in connection with crime investigations.

"When one realizes that the armed forces come from a cross-section of the national population, the record seems fine indeed."

Cravey Limits Size of Loan Ads, Threatens To Impose Total Ban

By JACK NELSON

The latest order was the commissioner's second one regulating small loan advertising since The Constitution ran a series of stories reporting charges made under the new small loan law that Cravey sponsored. On Aug. 2 he ordered that all loan advertising be submitted to him for approval before being published.

The new regulations became effective Monday, Deputy Loan Commissioner Ralph R. Cadle said. He said they were mailed to small loan firms throughout the state.

Although the regulations were put in force last Sunday in Atlanta, newspapers in other Georgia cities continued to publish small loan ads larger than Cravey specified in his order.

Cadle said the new order "is not a regulation." He said it is "a directive in the public interest."

Cadle said that under Cravey's censor ruling of Aug. 2 no small-loan firms were allowed to advertise from Aug. 5 to Aug. 15. This was to give the loan commissioner time to examine advertising copy submitted by loan firms, Cadle said.

Cadle said the new regulations will apply until "we can get together on a definite program on advertising." He said he doesn't know how long that will take. Cravey said he didn't know, either.

Cadle said that the new regulations are designed to give small-loan firms "some relief" by allowing them limited advertising while the censor program is set up.

In Cravey's "directive," he told the loan firms the new regulations were issued "temporarily and in order that advertising material may be released without delay to any licensee..."

The regulations specified "no figures shall be shown in any advertisement except to show the

Truman Planning Early Attack of GOP

Brushes Aside Suggestion He Might Be Candidate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Harry S. Truman today prepared a "give 'em hell" speechmaking campaign aimed at helping return the Democratic Party to the White House.

The former President said the Democrats can defeat President Eisenhower or any other GOP candidate in 1956 by starting early and "taking the issues to the people" in every state.

Truman has enlisted in such a campaign. He will start the ball rolling by talks at French Lick, Ind., Aug. 27; Mackinac Island, Aug. 29 and in Detroit, Sept. 5, at a Labor Day rally. Two talks in California will follow about the middle of September.

"I'm going to tear into the Republicans," he declared in a long distance interview from his office at Kansas City, Mo.

SUPPORTS ADLAI

Truman brushed aside any suggestion that he might be available as a candidate. He reiterated his support of Adlai Stevenson for the nomination if the former Illinois governor decides to make the race again. Stevenson's candidacy is regarded by most observers as a foregone conclusion.

Alabama Gov. James E. Folsom has said Truman could have the nomination if he wants it, and he elected.

Truman stressed, however, that "I'm in this fight for the duration, and behind the Democratic nominee, whoever he may be." He talked like the "give 'em hell" campaigner of 1948.

"We'll beat the Republicans with their own ammunition," the one-time captain of Battery D of the 12th Field Artillery in World War I, added.

AIR OF SECRECY

"What do you mean by beating them with their own ammunition?" he was asked.

"You just wait until I make those speeches," Truman came back, chuckling into the telephone. "I'm not revealing my own ammunition."

The veteran Missouri Democrat who surprised the nation by his election in 1948 after a whistle stop campaign of more than 350 speeches, said the two political talks he will make in California in the middle of September will be at Jefferson-Jackson dinners in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

He has another speech scheduled for an executives luncheon in Chicago, he was reminded.

"That's not a political speech," he said. "But maybe I can convert some of those Republicans in that club."

WILL KEEP ADVICE

In pledging himself to an active campaign for the party, Truman said "I am going to do all that I can to help restore the government of this country to the people."

"I'll be available right along to the Democratic National Committee."

While Truman favors an early start of the campaign, he said he is strictly refraining from giving any advice to the next nominee, whether it be Stevenson or some one else.

"The nominee should run his own campaign," he observed.

Nor is Truman advocating any one for the vice presidency.

"I'll support the nominee of the convention for that, too," he said.

MUST SEE PEOPLE

"An early campaign will give us a greater opportunity to see more people. And the more people we talk to, and tell the facts the greater will be our chances of restoring government to them."

He said he is feeling in "tip-top" physical condition. He considers that he has fully recovered from the effects of last year's major operation, and "ready for a fight."

He refused to discuss campaign issues in advance of his forthcoming talks, but indicated he will lay heavy emphasis on domestic issues.

And he said the Republicans are successful in the field of foreign policy "only when they follow the policies set up for them during the Roosevelt and Truman administrations."

NEW CHIEF SPEAKS—ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 17. Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, in full dress uniform, including sword, speaks in the Naval Academy's Dahlgren Hall after he was sworn in as chief of naval operations Wednesday. Burke said, "the problem of controlling the seas in tomorrow's world is a greater challenge to man than ever before." He succeeds Adm. Robert B. Carney, who steps down after 43 years of Naval service.

Another Mother's Status Halts Son's Commission

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—The Coast Guard today disclosed a case in which a reserve commission for a youth has been withheld because of security questions involving his mother.

Another such case was in the Merchant Marine.

The Coast Guard said it is withholding a commission from N. Pierre Gaston, 23, pending a review. Gaston was graduated April 1, from the Coast Guard Officer Training School at New London, Conn. He ranked eighth in his class.

His attorney, Murdaugh Madden, said Gaston's commission has been held back because his mother was accused of being a member of, or active in, organizations cited by the attorney general as subversive.

In the other case, the Navy withheld commission from Eugene Landy, 21, who ranked second in this year's graduating class at the Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, N.Y.

A local board of Coast Guard officers is considering Gaston's case. Madden said the youth's mother, Mrs. Jeanne Grisez of San Francisco, testified before the board here June 10 and 13 and said that: She had not been connected since mid-1950 with any of the organizations named, she did not know when she was in contact with them that they were alleged to be subversive, she had never been pro-Communist.

Madden said Gaston had not been with his mother, except for brief visits, in the last six years.

Gaston was graduated with a civil engineering degree in June, 1954, from the University of California, his attorney said. The officer candidate course at New London is for four months and is open to college graduates who wish to become Coast Guard reserve officers.

Koreans' Barrage of Rocks Sends Augustan to Hospital

SEOUL, Thursday, Aug. 18 (AP)—A battle of rocks and tear gas yesterday sent a young U.S. Army officer from Augusta, Ga., to the hospital as tension and tempers rose over Korean demonstrations against Red truce teams.

An angry U. S. Army port of official at Inchon, where the latest violence erupted, bluntly told Koreans backing the demonstrations that their attitude was that "of gangsters."

LABELLED SHOCKING

A U.S. source privately labeled the latest outbreak "unfortunate and shocking." He said it was likely U. S. Ambassador William S. B. Lacy would lodge a strong protest with President Syngman Rhee.

The trouble began at Seoul's port of Inchon shortly after 1 p.m. on the causeway leading to Wolmi Island. Truce teams have been besieged on the island in the harbor by 11 days of Korean demonstrations.

The Koreans tried to block U. S. Army trucks bringing supplies to Wolmi by driving up trucks and blocking the main gate.

U. S. Army sentries at the barricades opened up with tear gas, vomiting gas grenades and fire hoses.

BACKED AWAY

The South Koreans, about 100 strong, backed away, then laid down a rock barrage on five Army vehicles which started across to Wolmi.

At the same time, three Army vehicles crossed the causeway from Wolmi. They likewise were caught in the rock barrage and Lt. Wayne N. Hansen, Augusta, Ga., was struck on the head but not seriously injured.

The rocks still flew and smashed the windows of an ambulance which came and carried Hansen off to a hospital.

Lt. Col. Norman A. Browell, Connelville, Pa., deputy Army port commander at Inchon, was in the same three-truck party. The window of his sedan was smashed but he escaped injury.

Casualties In Jabs at Peron Soar

Police Quell Mob; 50 Are Seized

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 17 (AP)—Antigovernment demonstrators clashed with police and supporters of President Peron's government today in several parts of downtown Buenos Aires. Many persons were injured. About 50 were arrested.

Police broke up the disorders with tear gas and fire hoses. But fights kept erupting for a two-hour period. Several shots were fired during one encounter near the U. S. Embassy.

About 500 persons started the demonstration with a march down Florida street, yelling antigovernment slogans. About the same time, a few blocks away, another group leaving Mass at the Roman Catholic Metropolitan Cathedral on Plaza de Mayo began demonstrating.

CLASH WITH POLICE

Both groups clashed with police and other government adherents. The shots were fired a half a block from the American Embassy. This fight started when police tried to arrest a man who had been hurled through the plate glass window of a swank curio shop.

Another street battle began shortly after as the antigovernment demonstrators regrouped. Police again dispersed the crowd with tear gas and fire hoses.

BREAK HOLIDAY CALM

Police made several arrests tonight when some 400 demonstrators gathered in front of a statue of Gen. Jose de San Martin, who liberated Argentina from Spain.

The demonstration shattered the calm of a holiday marking the 105th anniversary of the general's death.

The police moved in when the crowd began yelling antigovernment slogans.

Today's violence started with a dawn attack on police, the ninth since July 30 when a policeman was shot dead. The attack turned into a cops and robbers chase through suburban Belgrano.

The outbreaks erupted only about 12 hours after the Peronista party had declared what appeared to be an end to the wobbly two-month truce between the Peron government and the Catholic church, the state church in Argentina.

The police moved in when the crowd began yelling antigovernment slogans.

Today's violence started with a dawn attack on police, the ninth since July 30 when a policeman was shot dead. The attack turned into a cops and robbers chase through suburban Belgrano.

The outbreaks erupted only about 12 hours after the Peronista party had declared what appeared to be an end to the wobbly two-month truce between the Peron government and the Catholic church, the state church in Argentina.

Mr. Benson Now Has Cheese Worries

The "dream world" of the nation's farmers is apparently not all that Secretary of Agriculture Benson has to worry about. He now has a bit of a stink about cheese, a smell involving some $2,000,000 of somebody's money—the somebody being the taxpayers.

Mr. Benson's department, it will be remembered, lowered the support price of cheese on April 1, 1954, from 37 cents a pound to 34½ cents. Knowing it was coming, some of the big distributing companies loaded themselves with cheese.

Came April 1 and the government had paid them for it at 37 cents and on April 2 these companies started buying it back at 34½ cents, the cheese never even having left their warehouses. Beneficiaries included such poor "dream world" farmers as the Kraft Foods Co., the Borden Co., A&P Stores and H. J. Heinz among others.

The comptroller general ruled yesterday that the department made "unauthorized and improper" payments of about $2,000,000. While this is no great amount considering all the money the government has tied up in surplus products and the fact that the dairy surplus is steadily dropping, it's just the principle of the thing.

The department's concern about the profits of these big distributors will cause quite a bit of lifting of eyebrows in the "dream world" of the dirt farmers. And the smell coming from the department's offices is something more than just surplus cheese.

If this had happened under Harry Truman there would have been angry denunciations of "Pendergastism," "stupidity" and "thievery." But, now that "the best brains in the country have been brought to Washington" the $2,000,000 worth of illegal cheese will be excused away as just a modest little omelette.

It will be interesting to see what fingers are caught in the trap—baited with this cheese. Meanwhile, the odor lingers.

Phil Campbell Makes A Splendid Suggestion

Phil Campbell, Georgia's able commissioner of agriculture, suggests to the governor, the attorney general and the Legislature, that the state's agricultural laws be overhauled.

"This never has been done since the department was established," he said, in asking for laws uniform with those of other states and revisions which fit today's agricultural problems.

There are some markets, he said in answer to questions, which are consistent money losers and these he believes should be closed.

The commissioner pointed no fingers. But here we have a very plain illustration of the high cost of politics.

Laws have been passed, especially in the last 20 years, at the whim of personal political desires. Some were adopted as "spite" measures, others to further political powers. Markets were established in order to help win elections.

It will be interesting to see if the real welfare of the farmer is put first—or if politics-as-usual will be the pampered fair-haired boy.

Metropolitan Area Has Common Water Problem

Fulton County commissioners have approved a survey of water resources and needs of the area around Atlanta. And representatives of six other counties met with them to discuss the project.

Object of the survey is to discover ways and means to bring more water into the section for industrial and residential uses if the need arises. Other counties interested are DeKalb, Clayton, Cobb, Fayette, Douglas and Gwinnett, all of which are participating in Atlanta's growth.

Fulton commissioners are sharply aware of how the lack of water can hamper a section's development. They have watched new homes spring up along the water lines of suburban DeKalb and Cobb Counties at the expense of the waterless, unincorporated areas of Fulton.

Currently, the county and city are working on a cooperative plan to carry city water into northern and southern parts of Fulton. This water will be welcome when it arrives, and should result in building booms all along the new mains. But in the meanwhile, the fact remains that thousands of homeowners and taxpayers have been forever lost to communities with more aggressive water programs.

The proposed water resources survey is commendable. The Chattahoochee has done a noble job so far in supplying this growing area with water. But the day is inevitable when the present supply will be strained.

Atlanta outgrows its city limits a little more each day. The needs of the city proper and suburban cities and towns are becoming more and more intertwined.

Water, and plenty of it, is one of the greatest of these common needs. The per capita consumption of water is on the upgrade and industry has an insatiable thirst.

The future of Atlanta and the seven counties that attended the meeting on water resources is one and the same. And water is one of the factors that will shape this future.

The Zoning Disputes Should Alert Buyers

Cities have growing pains, even as adolescents. Atlanta, which is growing like a weed or an eighth grader, has them badly.

One of the manifestations of this uncomfortably rapid growth has been the excitement over zoning. Tracts of scrubby pineland suddenly assume considerable value as locations for homes, business and industry as the city spreads out.

Peaceful suburban areas have been thrown into states of alarm by the discovery that the vacant acreage around the corner is ideally suited for industry or business, or else has been zoned for those purposes for years.

The result has been meetings, protest groups and bitter feeling. The theory of zoning, which is for the protection of everybody, has been saved by vote of the Board of Aldermen but a sour aftertaste lingers on. And who can blame a homeowner for feeling badly on finding that his neighborhood may never be the same again?

Out of the hearings, meetings and protests, one alarming fact has emerged. People buy homes on faith, as well as on credit. Many don't bother to check zoning ordinances or plans for their neighborhood. They take a stranger's word for it. Or else assume it is a static world. And the day of disillusionment is a sad day indeed.

It is too late to repair the damage that has been done. But it is not too late to hope that the current unpleasantness will result in a more cautious approach by real estate purchasers of the future.

The Romans had a phrase for it, "caveat emptor." Despite all the changes since the phrase was coined, apparently the buyer still must be as wary as ever.

Reds' 'Peace' Offensive Threatens NATO Setup

Secretary of State Dulles has issued a timely warning that the announced cut in Soviet armed forces manpower could be very misleading. He points out that the cut will leave Russian forces still much larger than those of the United States.

He might have added also that it does not include the huge forces of the satellite states nor the 4,000,000 estimated for the Red Chinese.

It is amazing how the Communist change of tactics has created an alarming wave of optimism in the Western world. While the Reds still say "nyet," they are saying it with a smile and threatening to destroy all of the carefully built defenses of Western Europe by diplomacy.

Popular pressures are growing in NATO countries to reduce arms expenditures and while governments may resist for awhile, NATO leaders are known to be gloomy. The United States itself is reducing military manpower from 3,200,000 in 1954 to 2,800,000 by June 30 of next year.

Rearmament of Germany will proceed at a snail's pace. It now seems that its 12 divisions will not be ready for about five years. Gen. Alfred Gruenther actually has about 16 active divisions guarding the entire front from the Baltic to the Alps, and the whole defense structure rests on nuclear weapons. Belgium, Great Britain, France and Holland have all drastically reduced their goals. Italy, Denmark and Norway lag and Tito's Yugoslavia is rapidly becoming a neutral.

By neutralizing Austria while keeping troops in Hungary and Roumania, the Soviet Union has made a net gain.

Most NATO members are letting the United States know that they can maintain their present forces only as long as we continue to provide aid.

The Russians have succeeded remarkably well in their initial campaign to convince West Europe that the war danger is over. They have done more in a few months toward wrecking Western defense plans than did Joe Stalin's 10 years of bluster.

Hurricane Season Is Called Good Reminder Of City's Fine Weather by Former Resident

Ocala, Fla.—As a former resident of Atlanta (1919-1940) I would like to use this column to point out a blessing that you enjoy and probably take for granted. I mean the Atlanta weather, which is the best of any city or region I've ever lived in—all in all.

A good reminder of that is the hurricane season currently striking the coastal regions.

Then, Atlanta not only never has to fear hurricanes, but citizens of the city also do not need to worry about floods, dust storms, cyclones, tornadoes, severe cold, too-extreme heat or hardly any of the weather "bogey-men" that other sections of the country have to fret about. QUENTIN LEYDEN.

Tax Collectors Said To Have Low Morale

St. Louis—A special advisory group recently reported that the morale of the nation's tax collectors is bad and "enforcement activities appear to be at a low ebb in the internal revenue service."

It is easy to understand how some few of the tax collectors found their morale at low ebb after the internal revenue scandals of 1950 and 1951.

We have been paying and not collecting and it would be nice if we had morale on the same high level. FRED WEAVER.

Atlanta Board Put 'Cart Before Horse'

Atlanta—The Atlanta Board of Education passed a resolution on August 8 calling for "no sudden, radical or revolutionary changes in the operations of the schools."

Investigative Group Needed To Sift Out Rumors in State

As of now, it looks like the state officials use their office for the sudden death of the inquiry, which was called for by Gov. Marvin Griffin, occurred under the strangest of circumstances and Georgians are wondering if it wasn't a plain case of political murder.

When it first came to light that George Whitman Jr., chairman of the State School Building Authority, had built up a lucrative insurance business with the state, rumors became rife that there was a considerable amount of "influence peddling" going on in state governmental circles.

Gov. Griffin straightaway issued a public statement saying that he wanted the Economy Committee of the Legislature to investigate fully the charges of "influence peddling" aimed at Mr. Whitman and he asked that the activities of Fred Hand, Mr. Whitman's predecessor, also be inquired into.

The committee decided that it was not within its jurisdiction to investigate ethics in government, unless the subject matter had to do with economy.

In a word, the committee was solely interested in economy, as such, and not in ethics or influence peddling.

It is a fact, and one which does not go unnoticed, that the chairman of the economy committee is one of the governor's chief lieutenants.

Has the governor, then assumed the authority of calling for an investigation and then having it called off?

With these rumors of "influence peddling" and state officials using their office for profit floating about, the people of Georgia will ask why some competent investigative group cannot be designated to sift them out and arrive at the truth.

Gov. Griffin has said that he will discharge anyone he catches doing anything wrong.

The trick is to catch them and apparently this can only be done by some committee hearing all of the evidence and then telling the governor that either there are or there aren't any wrongdoers in official circles.

A fellow in Washington named Talbot resigned because his ethics were questioned under similar circumstances. And the congressional committee, assigned to the case, didn't back away from it.

'Friendly Enemies' Stirs Imagination

A new book is like a new friend. Some books find a place on the shelf and through much handling become in time like old friends. But many new books are merely old books in new jackets. Nothing in them seems particularly appealing and nothing in them stimulates the mind. My reaction often is, "Well, all this has been said before and said better."

A new book with a new approach and in a fresh new manner brightens any day. Such a book came recently to my desk. The author is the Rev. Robert R. Brown of St. Paul's Church, Richmond. The publisher is Fleming H. Revell Co.

The title of the book immediately stirs the imagination. (That kind of a title always helps sales.) The title is "Friendly Enemies" and the paradox represented in the title is at once suggestive. The subtitle is: Putting your troubles to work.

This is a book with something for every reader. All of us have had friendly friends and each of us has put our assets to work. But a book that tells how troubles may mean something constructive in lives is worth reading.

The writer says that our troubles—our pains, limitations, loneliness, failures, despondency, doubts and griefs—"need not be an invincible set of chains which bind us to earth. They can serve as wings which lift us to heaven."

Some of the chapter headings stir the imagination: "Lead us into temptation," "Why fear failure?" "Limitations do not limit," "Go ahead and doubt," "Be discontented" and "So little time," among others.

This book is well written and it is interesting. It gets close to the life of every one of us. It tells us that those enemies of personality and sometimes of spiritual growth can become assets. We can learn by them and through them we can achieve undreamed-of rewards.

This book tells, nonetheless, an old, old truth. A handicap can become a man's master, but it need not. An harrowing experience can darken all life, but it doesn't have to. A trial or tribulation will drive one man to suicide and another to God.

Roosevelt would not have chosen a cane and a wheelchair if the choice had been his. Yet because of the physical handicap he became president, for while healthy men romped on athletic fields he studied and while healthy men squandered their health uselessly, he conserved his strength and disciplined himself.

Helen Keller, one of the great and good women of all time, would not have chosen a life of deafness and blindness if the choice had been hers to make. Yet her handicaps made her more sensitive to the troubles of others and her troubles gave her reason to believe that she could sympathize with and encourage others.

The list one could make is long and glorious. Perhaps you have succeeded where others have failed because of some friendly enemy who taught you a worthwhile lesson. Thank God for the troubles which have tempered our souls and made us think twice concerning the meanings of life!

Divided Government Proved Workable

WASHINGTON—The 84th Congress has done an outstandingly good job and, in all fairness, deserves only part of the credit.

The real credit, it seems to me, goes to the American voters who did two things to make this possible:

They continued to manifest such overwhelming support for President Eisenhower that the administration was freed substantially from extremist political pressures—either from leftwing Democrats or rightwing Republicans.

They gave the Democrats such narrow control of Congress that, as a consequence of the 1954 election, both parties were visibly and continuously put on the spot.

This meant that the voters imposed divided government upon the highly popular Republican President and in large part created the conditions which would make it work.

It did. That is the most signal and significant accomplishment of the past session of Congress, which came in like a lamb on Jan. 3 and went out like a lamb on Aug. 3—with a valuable record of achievement in its wake.

It made divided government—a Republican executive and a Democratic legislature—work well practically for the first time in American political history and at a time when, if it had failed, the whole free world would be imperiled.

Three factors combined to make this divided government work with unusual smoothness:

New Dawn of Hope Rises From Ashes of Hiroshima

In the Christian Science Monitor

CHICAGO—Hiroshima . . . A name fraught with meaning is faded in my notebook. But the scrawled notes bring into the focus of memory an event that electrified the world on Aug. 6, 1945. They lend a note of urgency to the United Nations Conference at Geneva on the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

I hadn't realized I would be the only American soldier to drop off a troop train at Hiroshima at 3 a.m. on a cold night in January nine and a half years ago. Nor had it occurred to me after Army billeting across Europe that there would be no place to eat or sleep, or that I would be the only American in this atomic-bombed Japanese city until the train returned 12 hours later.

Dawn came slowly after I had trudged for several hours over part of the five square miles of destruction. Each shaft of morning light from over distant hills disclosed more shocking details of the unbelievable havoc wrought by 1,000-mile-an-hour winds with furnace heat that had whipped across the city.

Fortunately a new dawn of hope—as a phoenix rising from the ashes of Hiroshima—is currently manifest across the world as man pursues ways to use his knowledge in the release of nuclear energy for constructive purposes. A surge of encouragement has come with the Russians' willingness to contribute fissionable materials to a peaceful international atomic pool. Bright promise is seen in the U.N. conference of nearly 60 nations at Geneva on peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

These portents of a real dawn of the atomic age appeared in the news in one recent week: Atomic power for the first time in America was fed into commercial use by the General Electric Co. near Schenectady, N.Y.; a giant reactor plant of 180,000 kilowatts capacity was announced by Commonwealth Edison Co. of Chicago to be in operation by 1960; the Seawall, second atom-driven submarine to join the United States Navy, was launched at Groton, Connecticut.

These examples comprise but a glimpse of the multitudinous ways the energy of nuclear fission is being channeled into the arts of humanity and progress—into industry to make a greater abundance of material benefits—into agriculture to provide better and more plentiful food and to make waste places fertile—into natural science to assist in inventions and to expand horizons.

As man struggles to control himself and so control use of the atom, he has these assuring words from President Eisenhower to the U.N., which deserve repeating again and again: "The United States . . . pledges before the world its determination to help solve the fearful atomic dilemma—to devote its entire heart and mind to find the way by which the miraculous inventiveness of man shall not be dedicated to his death, but consecrated to his life."

Leo Aikman A Doctor Looks At Traffic Toll

A doctor diagnoses the traffic plague and prescribes remedies in the August "Bulletin of the Muscogee County Medical Society."

The doctor is the society president, J. A. Elkins. Here's what he says in an editorial "President's Message":

"As physicians, we are concerned about deaths, especially deaths which could have been prevented. Our profession is interested not only in curing illnesses and injuries caused by accidents, but also in preventing them before they occur. We have stamped out the plague. Smallpox and typhoid are rareties. We are learning more about cancer and its early cure; rapid strides are being made in heart disease. With the new polio vaccine we expect to end polio. . . ."

"Our profession is proud of this progress, and rightfully so. But there are two conditions causing untimely deaths every day about which we are doing little. They are Speeditis and Alcoholic Driving. Some will say that this is not our problem, that it is up to the law enforcement officers to handle these conditions. But if a case of smallpox was running loose, we would try to do something about it, and this is an analogous situation. . . ."

"Traffic specialists claim that lives can be saved by better roads and this may be true. But many will use better roads only for faster driving.

"A uniform traffic law should be in effect in every state. . . ."

"It is going to take jail sentences to stop these needless deaths. Some may say a jail sentence is too harsh on a man who is working and supporting his family, but what about the family whose breadwinner is killed or crippled for life? Most of us laugh and joke about speeding and even if we get caught we are not embarrassed about breaking this law. But, if you had to serve a day in jail at hard labor for every mile an hour you were exceeding the speed limit, you certainly would not laugh very long.

"We personally know of a town that stopped drunks from appearing on the streets, and this took only about three months. Each drunk was sentenced to 30 days on a county farm. When the first group returned and spread the word about the 'Pea Patch' (County Farm), the excessive drinking stopped. The judge was not interested in fines, but in cleaning up the town.

"We are not criticizing our officials. Give them the laws to enforce and they will enforce them and stop this manslaughter on the highways. We physicians are citizens. We are influential in our communities. If we try to do something about preventing deaths and accidents on our highways by getting proper laws passed, we would just be doing our duty in preventive medicine."

Thomas L. Stokes is on vacation. His column will be resumed Sept. 6.

Cravey Loan Rules Win Ga. Firemen

Constitution State News Service
ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Aug. 17
—The Georgia State Firemen's Assn., today came to the defense of Zack Cravey, state insurance commissioner, in conduct of his duties as supervisor of small loans regulations.

Cravey, addressing the firemen last night, complained about his treatment by Atlanta newspapers and credited himself and Gov. Griffin with winning a new pension system for firemen in the face of cries of "slush fund" in the press.

Both Cravey and Gov. Griffin are members of the Firemen's Pension Fund Board.

The association adopted a resolution prepared by one of Cravey's staff members. The resolution noted that Cravey "has been subjected to criticism due to his position as industrial loan commissioner" and that the new law went into effect only May 4. The resolution said Cravey has had insufficient time in his new loan post.

"We unanimously go on record as according him a full vote of confidence and as assuring him that we stand behind him 100 per cent in any undertaking which he may pursue which he deems in the best public interest," the firemen said.

Gainesville Fire Chief R. E. Spence was elected new president of the association. Chief R. E. Simonton, Griffin, was elected vice president and Chief Max Wiggins, East Point, was reelected secretary-treasurer. Named to the Georgia State Firemen's Pension Fund Board were Lt. Roy Parker, Atlanta, who will serve

'55 Mission School Set By Methodists

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the North Georgia Methodist Conference will hold its 1955 School of Missions Aug. 22-26 at Emory University.

Registration is scheduled from noon to 2 p.m. Aug. 22. The school will open with an orientation program in the Theology Chapel at 2:15 p.m. Most sessions will be held in the Theology Building.

Mrs. H. B. Trimble, conference WSCS president, will preside at the school. Mrs. George W. Longino will serve as chairman and dean.

The program will include clinics for local church officers of the WSCS, worship services, study courses, lectures and recreation.

Instructors and their subjects will include Mrs. E. L. Hillman and Mrs. Frank Bell, "Christian Mission in a Revolutionary World"; Dr. William J. Hinson, "Introduction to Five Spiritual Classics"; Dr. Zach Henderson, "To Combine Our Efforts for Lasting Peace"; Mrs. R. R. Priddy, "Indian Americans"; Mrs. Foster K. Gamble and Miss Rhoda Edmeston, "Introduction to Five Spiritual Classics"; Mrs. J. C. Gaines, "Reporting WSCS Activities."

Workshop leaders and their subjects will include Mrs. M. E. Tilley, "Achieving Brotherhood Through Better Community Living"; Mrs. Helen Bourne, "Achieving Brotherhood Through Creative Study"; and Mrs. Dwight L. Fouts, "Achieving Brotherhood Through Wider Service of Women Within the Church."

The school will be followed by the annual Weekend Conference of the North Georgia Wesleyan Service Guilds Aug. 27-28. The conference also will be held at Emory.

Maritime Board To Visit Europe On Data Search

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Clarence G. Morse, chairman of the Federal Maritime Board, says he and other board members will visit West European shipbuilding centers this month.

The group will sail Aug. 19 aboard the SS United States for a 16-day journey through the British Isles, Germany, Holland, Switzerland and Italy.

Morse said that information gathered on the trip would be used to help determine the amount of subsidy which should be granted to American shipbuilders to equalize American and foreign shipbuilding costs.

2 Ph.D. Studies Added at Emory

The political science and philosophy departments at Emory University will offer the degree of doctor of philosophy, with initial candidates to be admitted in 1956.

Dr. Howard M. Phillips, dean of the Emory graduate school, said this brings to 13 the number of subject fields in which work toward the Ph.D. is available at Emory.

Several fellowships will be available for graduate study, Dean Phillips said.

Tears End Venture of 3 Orphans

A venture into the wide, wide world Wednesday ended in tears at the bus station for three boys. Pil. T. V. Mullinax noticed the three—aged 7, 8 and 9—and asked where they were going.

"Washington," one replied. "Nope," said another. "I hear Washington's too crowded. We're going to Mexico." "California for me," said the third. "They tell me boys catch big fish in California."

Mullinax offered to help with the tickets. He led the three to the police office at the bus station and called headquarters. They had been reported missing from an orphanage.

While the argument over where they were going continued, an orphanage official reached the scene. Mullinax said the three dropped their heads and with tears-choked voices chorused: "We're sorry. We won't run away again. We'd rather be right here, anyway."

GUTTED REMNANTS OF PRISON SHOP—LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 17—This is the furniture shop of the Nebraska State Prison following a 13-hour riot which started Tuesday night. Prisoners meekly went back to their cells Wednesday following a "shoot on sight" order by the warden. Three prisoners were injured by fellow convicts. The rioters burned five buildings and cut off all power. Gov. Victor Anderson said he believed the riot was started by some 30 ringleaders to seek release of two men held in maximum security.

4...7...12 Feet! Lawn Goes Down the Drain

PASADENA, Calif., Aug. 17 (AP)—Aircraft worker Ed Krantz heard a gurgling noise, looked out a window and saw part of his front lawn disappear into a hole in the ground.

Krantz grabbed a tape measure and went outside. Sure enough, there was a hole—36 inches wide and 4 feet deep.

He went next door and called the Rev. S. Edgar Langford, pastor of the Assembly of God church. Langford grabbed the tape and announced the hole was FIVE feet deep. He called the sheriff's office. Two deputies arrived, borrowed the tape and said the hole was SIX feet deep. They called the water company.

The man from the water company got down on his hands and knees, took the tape and announced the hole was SEVEN feet deep.

Then several neighbors, attracted by the commotion, had to see for themselves. After a quick check they said the hole was TEN feet deep.

The man from the water company said the hole was probably an old cesspool.

The deputies said it was probably an abandoned oil well.

The Rev. Langford said he didn't know.

The neighbors said they were glad it wasn't in their lawns and went back to bed last night.

So did everybody else. Except Krantz, his wife and daughter.

U.S. Visitors Tour Reds' 1st Siberia Farms

RUBTSOVSK, Siberia, Aug. 17 (AP)—Log cabins with thatched roofs and without plumbing stand on the treeless Siberian steppes as the first monuments to Russia's virgin lands program.

A party of American farm tourists drove across 100 miles of these steppes today and saw farms planted for the first time last year in party leader Nikita Khrushchev's program to increase food production for an increasing Soviet population.

They saw it at a poor time. They were impressed at the magnitude of the operation, but drought has cut the yield and the best fields, they figured, would not produce more than 15 bushels of wheat to the acre.

The corn crop was so poor that cattle had been turned into the fields to feed.

Central America Confers on Unity

GUATEMALA, Aug. 17 (AP)—Foreign ministers of five Central American republics were gathering today to try to bind their countries more closely together.

They will hold the first formal meeting of the Organization of Central American States (ODECA), starting tomorrow at Antigua, the old colonial capital 28 miles from Guatemala City.

Participating in the meeting will be representatives of Costa Rica, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua and Guatemala.

Ike Sets Up PW Conduct Code Against Torture

been too harsh and the Air Force too lenient in handling their repatriated men. In recent months, several Air Force men have told about their hardships in magazine articles, and the Army also publicized its attitude.

In its over-all approach to the problem the Air Force made the announcement that none of its men would be court-martialed. Although it forced several men to resign because of misconduct in prison camps, all received honorable discharges.

Meanwhile, the Army took up each of its cases singly and convicted several who received heavy sentences for offenses including homicide and treasonable collaboration with the enemy, combined with informing on fellow prisoners. A result of the differing approaches led veterans' organizations to demand that Secretary of Defense Wilson prescribe one policy for all.

The committee headed by Carter L. Burgess, assistant secretary of defense for manpower and personnel, took cognizance of this divisive debate. It stated that no man who had been maltreated by the enemy had been court-martialed by the Army or any other service. It also said that no man had got off too lightly, nor had anyone been tried unjustly. But it called for a high-level review of court-martial sentences to be sure none had been excessive.

While the committee spelled out the code of six articles, it was not in any true sense new. It was rather an explicit reaffirmation of previously existing policy, which the Army had vigorously and successfully spoken for. The essence of this policy, based on the Geneva Prisoner of War Conventions of 1929 and 1949, is that a war prisoner may not be required to give more than his name, rank, serial number and date of birth.

In hewing to this line, the committee suggested the individual should adopt tactics like a unit in combat:

"The committee agreed that a line of resistance must be drawn somewhere and initially as far forward as possible. The name, rank and serial number provision of the Geneva conventions is accepted as this line of resistance.

"However, in the face of experience, it is recognized that the PW may be subjected to an extreme of coercion beyond his ability to resist. If in his battle with the interrogator he is driven from his first line of resistance he must be trained for resistance in successive positions. And, to stand on the final line to the end—no disclosure of vital military information and above all no disloyalty in word or deed to his country, his service or his comrades.

"Throughout, the serviceman must be responsible for all of his actions. This in brief is the spirit and intent of the code of conduct which the defense advisory committee recommends."

Here's Code Of Conduct For Captives

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Here is the code of conduct for American prisoners of war outlined by the Defense department today.

1. I am an American fighting man. I serve in the forces which guard my country and our way of life. I am prepared to give my life in their defense.

2. I will never surrender of my own free will. If in command I will never surrender my men while they still have the means to resist.

3. If I am captured I will continue to resist by all means available. I will make every effort to escape and aid others to escape. I will accept neither parole nor special favors from the enemy.

4. If I become a prisoner of war, I will keep faith with my fellow prisoners. I will give no information or take part in any action which might be harmful to my comrades. If I am senior, I will take command. If not I will obey the lawful orders of those appointed over me and will back them up in every way.

5. When questioned, should I become a prisoner of war, I am bound to give only name, rank, service number and date of birth. I will evade answering further questions to the utmost of my ability. I will make no oral or written statements disloyal to my country and its allies or harmful to their cause.

6. I will never forget that I am an American fighting man, responsible for my actions, and dedicated to the principles which made my country free. I will trust in my God and in the United States of America.

Pew Is Awarded Contract To Lay Mains in DeKalb

The Arthur Pew Construction Co. of Atlanta Wednesday won the contract to lay some 12 miles of mains for DeKalb County's expanding water system.

The Pew bid was $198,941.50, said W. H. Weaver, general manager of the water system. Commissioner Wheat Williams said the winning bid was almost $100,000 less than the highest.

The contract let Wednesday is part of a $1,800,000 expansion program. It includes laying 35,000 ft. of 30-inch steel mains and 9,500 ft. of 24-inch mains.

the accusations had been accomplished.

He then referred to recent stories about the institution by Constitution Staff Writer Jimmy Walker, which were based on interviews with the chaplain and with former guards and ex-inmates.

DENIES PROFANITY

"Along with the fluent pen of Mr. Walker, the articles have led to believe I permitted brutalities," Mathews added. "I contend there is no brutality. To my knowledge there has been no cursing."

Mathews said that "until this effort was started to discredit the institution several months ago" he didn't know of any complaints against it.

Forrester and J. B. Hatchett, assistant director of the Department of Corrections, sat with the 10 senators on the committee during the hearing.

Hatchett said he recalled no incident in which any brutality charges were made against Mathews until last January. He said Georgia has been praised for having the only institution in the nation where guards are not armed with guns.

NEED PAY RAISE

He told the committee, "We need your help to get school-teachers for the training program, and we need a pay raise for the guards."

Dr. J. J. Arrendale replied to questions by Hatchett, that he thought medical facilities were good at the institution and that to his knowledge he had not treated any boy who had been abused by any official.

He said he had heard the captain of the guards curse but that he thought "he's a good man."

Next testimony came from Irwin Kimzey, member of the State Board of Education and a resident of nearby Clarksville. He said he had heard of a few rumors about the way the inmates were handled and had checked into them and found no basis of fact.

NUMEROUS CLIENTS

Kimzey, an attorney, said he had numerous clients at the institution but none of them had ever complained to him about treatment. His only suggestion was for more training at the institution, which he described as one of the finest in the state.

A former inmate from Atlanta, who came with the Senate investigating committee, said he was hit by a house boy for "cutting up" in the dormitory.

John Paul Jones, the former inmate, said he had talked with another inmate who claimed he was kicked and slapped and had two teeth knocked out.

CLAIMS EYES BLACKED

He also said one boy told him a guard blacked both his eyes and made his nose bleed.

Jones admitted that if a boy behaved he got "okay" treatment.

During the sessions a telegram from J. F. Freeman, president of the Georgia Prison Wardens Assn., lauded Supt. Mathews highly and cautioned the committee to "weigh all facts in the investigation carefully."

Three inmates testified in the afternoon sessions. One saw no beatings, heard no cursing or knew of any brutality. He said this was the fourth institution he had been in and was the best. Another inmate, who reportedly had two of his teeth knocked out, denied it and said they were pulled.

CHAPLAIN TESTIFIES

Chaplain Ausburn testified for nearly an hour about conditions at the institution. He said he had accepted the job on a permanent basis, he thought, but found out prison officials had promised to let his predecessor return if he chose.

He said the guard captain's pet phrase was "that damned Sunday school junk" and that he was called "damn preacher." The chaplain said he had heard a guard curse a man to get back in line.

Hatchett at this point questioned Ausburn's earlier comments to newsmen and said, "I was not critical of you for going before the Habersham Grand Jury."

REPEATS STORIES

The chaplain repeated that boys had told him about being hit, but said he didn't remember who they were.

Forrester produced affidavits from three former inmates who charged a former guard, R. W. Smith, with beating them with a pine limb after they tried to escape. One of the boys said he suffered cracked ribs. According to records, Smith was discharged from his job within three days after the incident. He claimed he was not fired but had quit.

Captain of the guards Charlie Hawthorn said that he heard plenty of inmates curse but not the guards. He said he didn't use profanity himself, and had never struck a boy.

Hatchett produced an affidavit signed by a former inmate denying that Hawthorn ever hit him. One guard, Bill Sigers, admitted ted slapping a boy who, he said, hit him on the side of the head. But Sigers said he did not hit the inmate in the mouth as had been charged. He said he had heard boys telling former guard Yearwood of beatings. Sigers said the same boys told him later "there was nothing to it, we were just running him out on a limb."

business. When asked to produce the records, however, he said it would be a great deal of trouble. He said he relied on his memory to equalize the purchases.

Since the paper orders involve less than $1,000 at a time, the Purchasing Department doesn't obtain sealed bids.

Shaw suggested that the department might be given power to let the paper contract by the year and get sealed bids on the contract.

Sen. Millican and Rep. Edgar Blalock, oil men themselves, criticized the state's practice of buying motor oils from a broker "representing an out-of-state firm" and shipping them through-out Georgia, when "local oil dealers could furnish the oil cheaper."

Millican said the oil was purchased from a Decatur broker and shipped through the Highway Department. Shaw said Millican referred to Southeastern Sales Co. of Decatur, and he said Southeastern offered the best bids. Millican said the way the bids were taken was not accurate, as they were based on brand names and not quality.

Shaw said division engineers of the Highway Department requested oil provided by Southeastern.

A typical modern jet fighter plane contains enough electrical wiring to complete the electrical circuits of 38 six-room houses.

"life-and-death" decision powers over purchases.

Groover asked Shaw how much of the $14,000,000 spent by the Purchasing Department since January "has gone to friends of Gov. Griffin?" Shaw said he did not know, as he did not bother himself with personnel of firms bidding for state business but concerned himself with the price and quality.

To Protect Taxi Revenue At Airport, Mayor Says

$40,000 Seen as City's '55 Share; Cab Drivers Contest Exclusive Pact

By HERMAN HANCOCK

The city is collecting taxi and other transportation revenue at the rate of $40,000 a year at the Atlanta Airport, records showed Wednesday and Mayor Hartsfield and other officials said they will protect this intake.

A controversy has developed over the exclusive franchise the city gave the Atlanta Baggage & Cab Co. Blue and Gray Cab Co. officials have announced plans to break the transportation concession.

Atlanta collected $34,125.16 last year from taxi, bus and drive-it-yourself operations, according to city records. The figure is up this year and will reach $40,000 if the remaining months keep pace.

FIVE-YEAR CONTRACT

On May 5, 1953, the city gave the Atlanta Baggage & Cab Co. a five-year contract under which the company pays the city 10 per cent of gross receipts originating at the airport.

Mayor Hartsfield pointed out that the effort to break the contract, thus reducing receipts, comes at a time when the city is attempting to finance an $8,000,000 improvement program, including a new terminal building. The mayor emphasized that sale of revenue certificates at an advantageous price hinges on receipts.

"We are planning to issue revenue certificates to help finance the airport improvement program and we do not intend allowing receipts to fall off if we can avoid it," Hartsfield asserted.

SHOW CAUSE NOTICE

Two cases made against Blue and Gray drivers were dismissed Tuesday in Atlanta's traffic court, but Police Chief Herbert Jenkins immediately served company officials with notice to show cause at the Aug. 31 meeting of the Aldermanic Board's police committee why the operating license should not be revoked. Two cab drivers defied city ordinances and parked at the airport, prompting the cases.

A. G. Hendley, of the Atlanta Baggage & Cab Co., had no comment other than to say his company is "living up to all provisions of the contract and is meeting its full responsibility to the public and to the city."

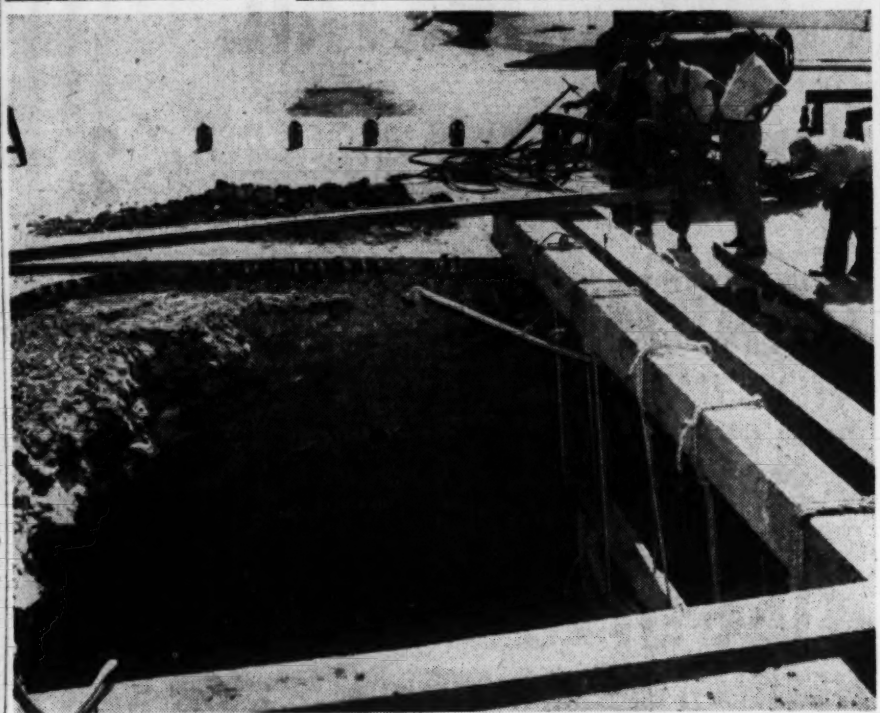

During the day Hartsfield and Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, chairman of the board of Eastern Air Lines, conferred about probable changes airlines must make to conform with new terminal requirements. The mayor estimated companies probably will supplement the $8,000,000 improvement program by spending another $2,000,000.

Third Million-Dollar Collection Day Swells Fulton County, City Coffers

The Fulton County tax office recorded another million-dollar tax collection day Wednesday.

Officials in Tax Commissioner T. E. Suttles' office said collections for the day totaled $1,098,999.03. This included $945,856.92 in City of Atlanta taxes, most of which was mailed in before the city's Monday deadline.

The collections also included $133,637.63 in state and county taxes and $19,504.48 in collections on the public service digest.

THE LID COMES OFF—City workmen view the 41½-foot-deep chasm in Ponce de Leon avenue after the perilously thin roadway that covered the washout was cut away. Atlanta Construction Chief Clarke Donaldson said Wednesday that repair work will be completed in two or three weeks, with good weather. The 25-foot-square erosion was attributed to heavy rains and was found in a search for a leaking gas main.

200 Atlantans Are Off to Havana Today for Athletic Festival

By DEAN RHODES

It will be "hands across the Gulf" Friday when 200 Atlanta Kiwanians and young athletes invade Cuba for the seventh International Havana Festival.

Sponsored by Atlanta's Northside Kiwanis Club, this year's fiesta will again feature athletic competition and provide a medium of understanding between youth of the two cities. Competition will include baseball, bowling, fencing, swimming and yachting.

Atlanta's young athletes will be out to win, but they will not bring home a trophy. The fiesta trophy, a symbol of good will, is rotated annually between Atlanta and Havana.

The Atlantans will leave Union Station Thursday night and will arrive in Havana Friday aboard the S.S. Florida.

In Cuba the group will tour the interior and attend a beach party and luncheon at the Kiwanis International Hotel. The Atlantans will return Aug. 25.

Atlanta teams have won all meets, with the exception of the one in 1953. Meets alternate between the two cities.

The fiesta program has been acclaimed as a major project in combating juvenile delinquency. The Northside Kiwanians in 1951 received the Kiwanis International Gold Award for outstanding achievement.

Francis J. Donahue, cultural affairs officer of the U.S. Embassy in Havana, has been appointed American representative to this year's games.

Havallanta was conceived at the National Collegiate Coaches Swimming Forum at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in the summer of 1948. Carlos de Cuba, Havana Olympic coach, suggested the event to Harry Glancy of Atlanta. A team of Havana swimmers came to Atlanta for a meet at Emory University in March 1949.

Elbert Tuttle, at that time president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, arranged for his organization to supply a trophy.

Assisting Northside Kiwanians with the program are the City of Atlanta Parks Dept., the Citizens

Parks Advisory Committee of Atlanta, the Board of Commissioners of Fulton County and the DeKalb County Commission.

Northside Kiwanis Club President John E. Branch acts as chairman of the general committee.

Stayman Bridge Team Wins; Goren Players Tie for Third

By CHARLES H. GOREN

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Samuel Stayman, Richard Kahn, Lee Hazen and Myron Fields, all of New York, and Charles H. Solomon of Philadelphia won the Masters Team championship as the 27th annual tournament of the American Contract Bridge League concluded today at the Palmer House.

The original field of 64 teams, which started play last Thursday, was reduced to eight for a round-robin match with the title going to the team that had the most wins.

The Stayman team won six matches and lost only one to the Goren team and finished with six wins and one loss.

Howard Schenken, B. Jay Becker, George Rapee, all of New York, and John R. Crawford and Sidney Silodor finished second with five wins and two losses.

Two teams were tied for third with four wins and three losses. One was composed of Charles H. Goren, Helen Sobel, Peter Levitt, Boris Koytchou and Harold Ogust, all of New York, and the other of Herschel Wolpert, Russell Arnold, Morris Frier and M. M.

Goldman, all of Minneapolis.

Albert Glatt and Albert Weiss of Chicago, David Carter of St. Louis and F. A. Bornbeck of Kansas City had three wins and four losses. The Chicago team of Morris Tish, Ron Wolf, Edward Jacobs, George Sorter and Peter Szecsi also had three wins and four losses.

Tobias Stone of New York, Byron Greenberg of Tulsa, Robert Kincaid of Liberty, Mo., and John Hubbell of Kansas City had two wins and five losses.

Mrs. Betty Lindley Norfolk, Robert Stineck and Alex Tschekeloff, all of Philadelphia and Said Hadad of Washington had one win and seven losses.

The Stayman team is now the official United States representative and will meet the French champions in a world title match next January in Paris.

Scooter Rider Killed, 6 Injured In Traffic; Air Line Pair Hurt

By KEELER MCCARTNEY

One person was killed and six others injured Wednesday in traffic over the Atlanta area, police said.

Dell Abbott, 14, Negro, of 1120 Avenue B, NW, was killed when his home-made scooter was struck by an automobile on Kerry Drive near Drew Street, NW, Dets. N. W. Smith and H. E. Burdett said.

Detectives said the youth's scooter rolled out of a parking area into the street directly in front of an automobile driven by Alton Ruff, 25, Negro, of 669 Tilton St., NW. No charge was made against Ruff.

Two Eastern Air Lines mechanics were hurt Wednesday when the car they occupied went out of control, plunged from the road and struck a parked truck on State Highway 160 at the north Forest Park city limits, Asst. Forest Park Police Chief Sam Blacklock said.

James W. Dunn, 34, of Forest Park, was admitted to Grady Hospital in critical condition with head and internal injuries, Blacklock said. A second occupant of the auto, James Buford Dudley Jr., 24, of 921 Exeter Dr., SW, was treated at Grady for cuts and bruises and dismissed.

The ton and a half truck, parked off the roadway, was hurled 35 feet onto railroad tracks, Blacklock related. He said the accident occurred shortly before train time, but added the wreckage was cleared away within a few moments.

A Brookhaven sheet rock contractor was seriously injured when the car he was driving went out of control, traveled 150 feet, cut down a utility pole and slammed into another machine, DeKalb County police said.

Bigge Edward Hamby, 20, of 1594 Parkside Dr., Brookhaven, was admitted to Grady with head and body injuries.

Ptl. W. N. Bazemore and C. C. Cofer said the car struck a machine operated by T. D. James of 3916 North Thompson Rd. Officers added no one in the second auto was seriously hurt.

Dr. Raymond W. Powell, 57, of 131 Forrest Ave., NE, a dentist, suffered injuries to the left shoulder and knee when he was struck by a car at Courtland Street and Forrest Avenue, police said.

Two were injured in a two-

Says DeKalb's School Tax Boost Stresses Fulton Need

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

The $37,000,000 increase in the DeKalb County school tax digest further emphasizes the financial needs of the Fulton County schools, Supt. Paul D. West declared Wednesday.

West said that under the increased DeKalb tax digest approved by the state Tuesday, the DeKalb school district digest will experience an increase equal to more than half of the Fulton school district digest.

DeKalb Tax Commissioner Fred Nash said the 1955 net school tax digest—after homestead exemptions—will total $9,430,350. This compares to a 1954 digest of $62,353,910.

1955 FULTON TOTAL

The 1955 Fulton school digest for real and personal property totaled $55,328,435.

Thus, West explained, the $37,076,440 increase in the DeKalb school operational digest equals more than half of the entire Fulton digest.

This is further evidence of the very low assessments in Fulton County and of the increasing magnitude of the problems in our whole fiscal structure," West said. DeKalb school officials expect the increase to bring in an estimated $609,133.

Major portion of the DeKalb increase was effected by the county tax assessors who increased from 50 to 65 per cent the assessing base for real property.

60 PER CENT VETOED

The Joint Atlanta-Fulton County Board of Tax Assessors recently turned down a plea by county school officials to use 60 per cent of base property values as a basis for 1956 county taxes. The assessors instead approved 50 per cent.

Fulton school officials already have voiced fears that the lower percentage will produce a school tax digest so small that the system will be without any bond potential for a number of years and may also face a financial crisis.

The two systems operate a comparable number of schools: Fulton has 44, housing 20,935 students, while DeKalb has 49 with an enrollment of 26,500. The DeKalb district takes in about 250 square miles, while Fulton encompasses 420.

Major difference in the systems is their growth, officials said. DeKalb's enrollment is increasing at a rate of about 3,000 students yearly, while Fulton's is growing at a rate of about 1,500 yearly.

Youth Stumbles, Rifle Wounds Companion

A 16-year-old DeKalb County youth Wednesday was wounded in both legs by a rifle in the hands of a companion, police said.

Jimmy Dearing, of 2572 Whites Mill Rd., was admitted to Emory University Hospital, DeKalb Patrolmen W. A. Mitchell and J. B. Slade said. Young Dearing and Russell Moore, 16, had been firing the .22 caliber rifle behind the Dearing home, patrolmen related.

After target practice, police said, the two started back in the house. Moore stumbled and the gun accidentally fired.

May Screen Inmates in Baldwin

Gov. Griffin said Wednesday he is looking into the possibility of setting up one or two screening centers for Milledgeville State Hospital in Baldwin County.

Griffin said there are 11,000 inmates at the mental institution and that the state expenses run $800 a year per inmate.

The governor said between 400 and 500 additional persons are admitted to the hospital each year and that officials are looking for ways of cutting down on the number of inmates.

Alcoholics and senile cases are admitted each year, Griffin said, and they should not be in the institution. By establishing a screening center, the governor hopes to divert these type applicants to other institutions and to eventually reduce the number of patients at the hospital by 2,000 to 3,000 inmates.

Grocery Truck Stolen Here As Driver Delivers to Cafe

A ton-and-a-half truck loaded with groceries was stolen in Atlanta Wednesday, police said.

Lt. I. A. Thomas said an estimate on the value of the cargo could not be obtained immediately.

The truck belonged to the Merlin Wholesale Grocery Co. at 125 Decatur St., SE, Thomas said.

A driver told police he parked the truck at Broad and Hunter streets, SW, to make deliveries to a restaurant. Thomas said the driver went inside the restaurant and when he returned the vehicle had disappeared.

The truck was described as a 1949 Dodge, with red cab and blue fenders.

Lookouts were broadcast to surrounding counties and the State Patrol.

Building Permits Totaling $2-Million Issued Here

Permits for construction valued at nearly $2,000,000 were issued Wednesday.

A $1,300,000 permit for framing in a new federal building at 275 Peachtree St., NE, was issued to Ben Massell. A supplementary permit will be taken later as work progresses. Other permits were issued for construction of a 36-unit apartment house by 1197 Simpson, Inc., at 1197 Simpson St., NW, and for a $30,000 office building and warehouse at 728

Spring St., NW, owned by CMS Realty Co.

Zoo Additions

Half a dozen Mexican burros are at Grant Park Zoo. They were placed on exhibit Wednesday by zoo director Johnny Dilbeck. Parks Manager George Simons said they cost $65 each and are the first of their type at the zoo in 15 years.

Expert Coming To Talk Area Water Survey

A representative of an Eastern engineering firm is scheduled to arrive in Atlanta Thursday to discuss with Fulton County officials a proposed survey of water needs for a seven-county area around Atlanta.

A. T. McDonald, the county's public works director, said he would confer with the representative of Frederick R. Harris, Inc., on cost of the survey, the area it would cover and the time required for its completion.

The firm made a survey of the Chattahoochee River for navigational possibilities in 1945 for the Atlanta Freight Bureau. McDonald said the firm was invited to submit a proposal of the survey because of its experience with water resources in Georgia and the Southeast.

YOUR BLOOD PRESSURE: Overweight Hypertensives Advised to Reduce

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, Thursday, August 18, 1955 • 17

Consultant and Former Chief of Staff, Mount Sinai Hospital
CHAPTER XI
"When something bothers me, I eat! I go on an eating binge."
This 48-year-old patient had a systolic pressure of 180 and a diastolic of 120. She was short and weighed about 200 pounds. Two years previously she had weighed about 150 pounds and her pressure had been within normal limits.
It's all right to be fat if you like to eat. But you must be prepared to pay the price. The person who is overweight sows the seed which may blossom out into disease of the pancreas, diabetes, heart trouble, or hypertension.

HEART OVERLOAD
When you consider that for every pound of fat you must develop an increased number of small blood vessels to act as gateways of nourishment for the new tissues, then you realize that an increase of 50 pounds means an increase of hundreds of thousands of such small vessels. It is easy to understand why doctors want fat persons with high blood pressure to reduce.

The increased number of vessels means an increase in work for the heart. It must pump enough blood into these new areas to keep them alive. And that is some job when you consider that the heart is already tired out by having to pump nourishment into pre-existing tissues against a pre-existing wall of hypertension.

I feel that the hypertensive has a better chance when he is fat. That is, a better chance to get well if he reduces that fat. If you are normal and have high blood pressure, we certainly cannot advise you to diet down to skin and bones. But if you are fat and have 50 pounds extra weight, at least you can take a great load off the circulation by reducing.

OVEREATING IS CAUSE
All persons who become fat do so, with but few exceptions, only because they overeat. You may say that you eat little and yet wonder why you are gaining. You may be perfectly honest in your convictions. But if you listed everything you put into your mouth from the time you got up until the time you went to sleep, you would find where the extra calories were coming from.

Remember that anything over and above your caloric needs will put on weight. An extra pat of butter, an occasional piece of cake, an ice-cream sundae, a second helping of spaghetti, too many cocktails before dinner, a love of fried foods, a liking for the fatty parts of meat: These and any other extra portions will, in weeks, months, or years, surely put on the extra weight.

Look at yourself. Are you fat? You don't need a doctor to tell you that. Your best friends are sometimes the first to tell you know. Take the word of your mirror, your family, and your friends when they say that you are putting on weight. Then take it off.

NORMAL WEIGHT BEST
Normal weight is the best premium and the least expensive one you can pay for health. If you have hypertension, we tell you to lie down a few hours in the afternoon or take an hour's nap after lunch in order to give the heart a rest from pumping against the increased pressure.

And yet of what avail to the circulation are these short periods of rest when you consider that the heart has to pump for 24 hours against the unnecessary bulk of the fat person? I think the most important thing you can do at present in the treatment of hypertension is to remove excess fat.

If you are overweight, do not attempt to dissolve it within a few weeks. Reduce at the rate of two or three pounds a week, preferably under a doctor's care to prevent you from becoming overly ambitious. Taking it off too fast is sometimes as bad as not reducing at all. Your system needs time for readjustment. In fact, if you intend to remove 40 pounds, it is sometimes better, after having taken off 20, to put on a few pounds again for a few weeks before you continue the downward course.

Even if you remove as little as one pound a week you can lose 50 pounds in a year. There's no hurry, as long as you've made your decision to do something about it.

Don't walk around with a calorie on the intake of fats, such as butter, cream, mayonnaise, fatty soups. Cut down on candy, cake, pies, ice cream sodas, nuts, all kinds of desserts. Eat less bread, potatoes, cereal, spaghetti, macaroni, baked beans, and other starchy foods. Remember not to eat apples, pears, or grapes in large quantities because these too are fattening.

Patients say, "Then what is there left for me to eat, Doctor?" There is everything else, which is sufficient. You have lean meats, broiled chicken, fish, green vegetables, fruit juices, sea food, broth, milk, eggs, and many other non-fattening foods.

You'll find you will have enough if you persist in watching your diet. It pays to lose if you want to manage your hypertension and not let it manage you.

Emory Expects 700 Coeds for Fall Quarter

About 700 women students are expected to turn out for classes that begin for the fall quarter Sept. 20 at Emory University. This boom in co-education forecast by L. L. Clegg, director of admissions, will include women in the college school of nursing, graduate school and professional schools. Of these 158 will be freshmen, as compared to 89 freshmen women signed up last year at this time.

New students, both men and women, already accepted in both the lower and upper divisions of the college number 689, as compared to 553 last fall, with the total new men college students up from 410 to 456, and new women college students up from 143 to 233. Professional enrollments will continue at much the same figure as previously, although the gain in the school of theology has made that division one of the two largest Methodist divinity schools in the country.

Registration for freshmen from Atlanta is Sept. 13; for freshmen from outside the area, Sept. 14; for transfers in the college and new graduate school students, Sept. 15. Closing date for all registration is Sept. 19.

Used Bayonet On Columbus Man; Gets Term

HONOLULU, Aug. 17—UP—Pfc. Clyde D. Denmark, 24-year-old Marine from Selma, Ala., today was sentenced by a court-martial to one year for wounding with a bayonet a sailor he said he found in his wife's arms.

The court convicted him on a charge of "assault and intentionally inflicting grievous bodily harm" on James M. Lott, 22, Columbus, Ga., the sailor. Denmark also was given a bad conduct discharge. The sentence is subject to review in Washington.

The Worry Clinic
By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

One's Emotional Age Important in Marriage

Polly S., 26, is in love with a man who is 42.
"Dr. Crane, my friends tell me there is too great an age difference for us to be happy," Polly protested.
"But Paul has the same interests and hobbies that I do. We also are both active together in the same church and sing in the choir."
"He was previously married but his wife died three years ago. He has two daughters in high school."
"They seem to like me very much. So do you think I am foolish to marry him?"

AGE BARRIERS
Age in itself is not very significant as regards your chances of happy marriage.
Some playboys of 38 to 45 are still emotionally juvenile, so they might be far younger than a 20-year-old girl who had earned her way through high school and had developed the social maturity of the self-reliant modern office girl.

Some boys of 18 to 20 may be far older in their experience with life than a lot of giddy social butterfly women who have been coddled and spoiled.

The real age to consider for permanently happy marriage is the EMOTIONAL age of the bride and groom.

And that is not necessarily anywhere near the calendar age. Polly is a mature woman with two years of college. She has worked for her own living. She has high ideals coupled with a great deal of practical experience with people.

And her prospective husband is a stable personality who has already been housebroken for happy marriage.

That is vitally essential, too, for a bachelor of 42 is a dubious marriage risk. It is usually much safer to marry a widow than an old bachelor, though there are occasional exceptions to the rule.

Polly has a gay, happy disposition. And Paul likewise is a genial type who has high morals and who will give her economic as well as emotional security.

MARRIAGE MATHEMATICS
Besides, Polly has no other likely suitors. And she is old enough to realize the happiness of being settled in a home of her own.

In this type of case, we psychologists usually are glad to endorse the marriage.

Polly should, of course, sit down privately with Paul's two high school daughters and ask their opinions.

A certain amount of jealousy is more or less inevitable in such a situation, but intelligent adults can generally handle all such problems that arise.

If she marries Paul, she likewise must decide whether she wants to be the mother of his high school girls.

If she "adopts" them as her own children, psychologically, and if they freely express their desire to "adopt" her as their mother, then this union of mother and daughters is just as vital and secure as that of Paul and Polly when they say "I do."

It is always well to clear up these matters in a private session between the children and their prospective new parent so everybody will enter into the new home life with eyes wide open.

Marriage is a game. We have the rules and any intelligent person can follow them and be ideally happy.

So send for my 200-point "Tests for Husbands and Wives." Address your request to me in care of the Constitution, enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime.

Trachoma Yields To New Drugs

At one time trachoma (granular eyelids) was a serious health problem in the United States. In the central section of our country the condition was so rife it was considered epidemic.

Within the last decade it has been confined largely to American Indians, mountaineers of Tennessee, Missouri and Kentucky, and in certain poor farm communities.

The number of victims is much higher elsewhere. In some parts of Asia, from 30 to 60 per cent of the population are afflicted; and in Europe, 5 per cent. Mass treatment with the sulfa products among the Indians of Arizona and New Mexico reduced its incidence from 20 per cent in 1938 to less than 0.2 of 1 per cent today. Furthermore, trachoma was a common cause of blindness and as late as 25 years ago, was responsible for one out of four pensioners on the Missouri state blind pension roll. Now it accounts for only one out of 20 of this group.

What is trachoma? It is a contagious infection of the external lining membrane of the eyeball and the inner lining of the eyelids. The disease is indistin-

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

By HATLO

guishable in the early stages from an ordinary eye infection as there is watering of the eyes along with burning, itching and photophobia.

As it progresses, the conjunctiva becomes more swollen and reddened and the lids thicken due to scarring. The granular appearance stems from the pebble-like follicles dotting the surface.

If the disease is allowed to advance, blindness is inevitable. Furthermore, the scars in and about the edge of the lids encourage ingrown lashes which augment irritation.

Trachoma is an example of an infection in which the cure is known but the cause has escaped detection. Many organisms have been implicated but our scientists are not sure whether the culprit is a virus or an inclusion body somewhat similar to the agent responsible for psittacosis (parrot fever).

The sulfonamides are more or less specific. Antibiotics like aureomycin and terramycin are next on the list, whereas penicillin and streptomycin have little or no effect. Improvements in diet and the economic status aid in eliminating the malady. Trachoma is not hereditary but it is a family disease because the organisms are transferred easily from one member to another through the common use of towels and wash cloths. The more insanitary and crowded the household, the more prevalent the infection. When corrections along this line are made, trachoma tends to disappear.

 South 1 spade
 West 2 diamonds

Opening lead: Ten of hearts. Many years ago an eminent authority broadcast to the bridge world the doctrine that contracts below game should not be doubled unless the person about to yield the ax held two trump tricks. This resulted in the loss of many opportunities.

It seems to me that a common sense business attitude should be adopted toward the penalty double. The simple expedient of adding your expected tricks to those that your partner will probably take should simplify your doubling problems. It should be borne in mind, however, that where the opponents by reason of the double will score a game if the contract is fulfilled, you ought to allow yourself a little leeway to provide for unexpected distribution or a possible error by your side.

On today's hand, North opened with one club, and South responded with one spade. West, with complete disregard for vulnerability, or for his financial security, overcalled with two diamonds. North's pass at this point was sound strategy. It would be poor tactics to make a free rebid since the opening was based on minimum values (12 points in all). East, of course, passed and the auction was back to South, who had a very touchy decision to make.

He calculated that in the actual play his hand would probably develop about four tricks, which, added to the three that the opening bidder is normally expected to produce, would reach a total of seven. This spells down two, for a reward of 500 points. Furthermore, if something should go wrong with the calculation, no disaster would result from the fulfillment of the contract, because it would not give game to the opponents. He therefore doubled and all hands passed.

Declarer was able to take four diamond tricks and a heart. Down three: 800 points less 100 honors. One small voice was raised against the "two trump trick" requirement.

5 Jury Panels Used Up In Lowndes Murder Case

Four jurors were selected out of the first 60 veniremen examined Wednesday for the trial of Alton M. Wilson of Thomasville on a charge of murdering Deputy Sheriff A. C. (Dick) Walden.

Only John I. Weeks, W. M. Kelly, Jack Gayle and Eural Carter were accepted as jurors before the five initial panels were exhausted.

Judge George R. Lilly recessed court to allow Clerk Tom Converse to draw additional names and summon new veniremen to court.

Wilson, 21, and his wife, Ruth, 46, already have been convicted at Thomasville of voluntary manslaughter in connection with a killing that preceded the fatal shooting of Walden here June 16. He drew a 20-year sentence and she 15 years in the death of L. M. Racheis, 65, a Waycross railroad conductor.

Defense Attys. Sam Smith and Henry Brice moved here for postponement of the trial, transfer to another city and twice for dismissal of the indictment.

They were denied in each instance by Judge Lilly. The dismissals were sought on the grounds that the grand jury returning the indictment and the trial jurors were illegally summoned.

Welfare May Cut Budget Plea for '56

The Fulton County Public Welfare Board is tentatively considering a 1956 budget request which is $5,000 less than the total 1955 county appropriation for welfare. Wellborn R. Ellis, welfare administrator, said Tuesday.

Ellis said the board is studying a budget totaling $1,325,000, which will make use of some $50,000 in cash reserves and bonds the board now holds.

The board's 1955 county budget appropriation was $1,280,000. It had requested $1,385,000.

Ellis said the tentative budget, studied by the board in special session Tuesday, calls for hiring 13 new employees and minor improvements in "one or two welfare programs."

Six of the requested employees would be added to the present six-member rehabilitation unit. Five others would be utilized in a home-maker service, and two would serve as child welfare workers.

The budget also calls for establishment of an employment counselor position to aid in rehabilitation of welfare clients. Ellis said the board will hold another special budget session in September.

'Holiday in Rome' Inspires Delightful Casual Clothes

By MARY GRAY ANDERSON

The romantic, nostalgic musical album "Holiday in Rome" has inspired a California designer to create a gay, delightful series of at-home casuals.

Slim pants topped with loose, unrestricting over-blouses and jackets constitute the silhouette that will be a practical favorite for all-winter wear.

But these extremely comfortable, colorful casuals go a great deal further in giving a snappy, positive new look to leisure attire.

MODERN MARCO POLO

These Italian-inspired ensembles, that set a mood as relaxing as a gondola ride in the moonlight, have been carefully plotted by designer Phil Rose, sometimes called the modern Marco Polo of fashion.

To add to the romance and glamour of these merry-mooded separates their prices range from $2.98 to $14.98, reasonable enough for you to have several combinations to interchange for several costumes.

They're fun to wear, and easy to care for... in soft, imported velveteens, fine pinwale corduroys, shiny cottons and heavy jersey knits... that are all machine washable.

100 COMBINATIONS

This designer didn't just scratch the surface. His inspiration was so deep-rooted that he had turned out approximately 50 different styles before he had finished. And from them there are about 100 possible match-up combinations.

He combines a long-sleeved, loose sweater coat of wide-ribbed combed cotton with tapered slacks, and a dyed-to-match boat-neck T-shirt.

A handsome twin shirt set features light horizontal stripes over dark in a "V" neck over-vest, worn over a long-sleeved turtle-neck jersey that has dark stripes on a light ground. With the gay set, he suggests imported velveteen Capri pants.

A corduroy jester suit gives the college crowd the look they like without ruffles, bows and gimmicks. Sawtooth edging on the sleeves, blouse bottom and the pant-legs is the only trim, but it gives the outfit a maximum of stylish comfort.

Another outfit called "Torna a Sorrento" (Come Back To Sorrento) has a straight over-blouse with a full belted back that is adapted from the fishermen's shirts so popular in Italy. It is worn with treader pants of a bright Roma print.

Rose designs are so authentic and pleasing that they have rated him fan mail from Italy.

He received this letter from an American girl in Rome:

"Dear Mr. Rose, I am enclosing an order for six of your 'Holiday in Rome' ensembles. Sure wish you had a shop here. I can't find anything as 'Italian' as your outfits in Rome's stores and I gave your play clothes I brought with me to some Italian friends who went mad over them. Please air mail my things, size 12, at once."

The fashions shown are available in Atlanta. For shopping information, call WA. 5050, Ext. 394, or send a self-addressed postcard to the Women's Department, The Atlanta Constitution.

Scales Say No Loss, Keep On

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Reducing is three-fourths encouragement—and the encouragement lies in the reminder that it can be done even when the scales show no steady loss. So that is our morale builder for today.

These are questions frequently asked by puzzled dieters: Why do some dieters appear to gain weight the first week or so? Why do dieters fail to lose a single ounce for an aggravating number of days at the beginning of a diet?

WHY?

Why do others lose satisfactorily for a few weeks, then suddenly stop losing weight, strict diet to the contrary?

Many overweights seem to be convinced that their fat has "hardened on" and is therefore impossible to get off. Others believe that in their particular case, for some unknown reason, the fat stubbornly defies every reducing effort.

No matter what the scales seem to indicate, excess pounds cannot continue to hold out against a low-calorie diet. Eventually they give way. The gremelin that plagues dieters is a phenomenon known as water swings. There's nothing abnormal about the retention of water.

Here's what happens: When fat leaves the cells to be used up in energy, the lost fat may be temporarily replaced by water.

SHOW A GAIN

Sometimes the cells become so distended with water that the scales—instead of showing the looked-for loss—actually show a gain, because water weighs more than fat.

Or sometimes the amount of water retained is equal to the weight of the fat lost, so the dieter's weight remains the same. Naturally the dieter is unhappy and disgruntled.

But here's a promise—stay with the diet and eventually the stored water will be lost from the tissues, and then, ah bliss, weight drops dramatically.

The annoying part of water swings is that they're so unpredictable. Some overweights lose 5 pounds the first week and 4 pounds the second, and jubilantly expect to be slim in short order.

What they don't understand is that part of the loss is in water. Even though the sum total is good news on the scales, it's not all lost fat.

Debs Select Executive Committee, Plan Halloween, Christmas Balls

Appointment of an executive committee and plans for two gala balls have been announced by Miss Nancy Carter, president of the 1955-56 Debutante Club.

Serving on the committee with Miss Carter will be Miss Ellen Ansley, Miss Marguerite McDaniel, Miss Vickie Chiles and Miss Carol Mouchet.

The debutantes, meeting at the Piedmont Driving Club with their president for the first time, voted to wear long dresses of any color to the Halloween Ball to be held at the Driving Club on Friday, Oct. 28. They will also wear elbow-length white gloves and each will be allowed one escort.

Miss Carter, who was vacationing at Sea Island when the club organized and elected her president, said:

"The Christmas Ball will be held on Dec. 26 at the Driving Club. We will wear all white to that party and have a guest list of approximately 800."

Following a tradition of many years, members of the club will make their first appearance as a group at the Halloween Ball which marks the formal opening of the fall and winter social season in Atlanta.

Miss Carter said that another meeting of the club is set for Aug. 30 at the Piedmont Driving Club at which time a charity will be selected. Membership in the club, now at 48, has been closed.

2-YEAR-OLD TRIES TO DO THINGS FOR HIMSELF
He Doesn't Want Anyone Else to Do Them

Marcia Winn

2-Year-Old Requires Lots of Loving Care

He is 2 and at times a terror. Part of the time he is sweetness incarnate. Again you can't do a thing with him. Do you sometimes wonder if it is you that is at fault? If so, you are more than normal. Being 2 is difficult, probably as difficult as being with some one who is 2.

All the 2-year-old wants is to do for himself. "Me do it!" is his battle cry, outvoted only by "No!" If you do it.

He tries with all his might and main to climb into a high chair. You, the adult, know he can't quite make it.

You don't want him to fall. You also want to help him. So you lift him up. Your reward? Shrieks of fury. He wanted to do it himself.

He climbs up a trellis, but he can't get down. Moreover, he seems in danger. You lift him down. He hates you.

He wants to get on the couch

Statue of Liberty Is Sight She'll See

By YOLANDE GWIN

If you were a teen-ager what would you want to see most on your first visit to New York?

Rockefeller Center, the Brooklyn Bridge or the Empire State building?

"The Statue of Liberty is my favorite," said Robyn Walsh as she boarded a train yesterday bound for her first trip to the East. "After I see that, just about anything will thrill me."

This sophomore at Northside High School left with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Walsh Jr., and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Walsh, for New York where there will be a family reunion plus a wedding.

The Atlantans will meet Mr. and Mrs. George Walsh of Cleveland, Ohio, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Walsh, in New York and the group will stay at the Waldorf. On hand to meet them will be Mr. and Mrs. Walsh's other son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walsh, who live in nearby Orangeburg, N.Y. The latter couple's daughter, Mercedes Walsh, will be married on Saturday at St. Patrick's Cathedral to Patrick Thomas McGahn of Atlantic City. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Hotel Pierre.

The Atlanta group will head south on Sunday, but Mrs. Frank O. Walsh Jr. and Robyn will stop off in Philadelphia and motor to Vixen Hills Farm, the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Peeples, for a visit. Mr. Peeples, former Atlantan and well-known author, is the brother of Mrs. Walsh. After a visit at the farm, they will stop over in Washington to see the sights in the national capital.

SPEAKING OF TRIPS, Mrs. A. G. Kyle of Decatur, who is back from a tour of Europe, said the Scandinavian countries were the highlights of the trip.

"Most beautiful places I have ever seen," she reported, "and that is saying a lot for the places I saw were gems of beauty and like something out of fairyland!"

DR. AND MRS. DENNIS DURDEN, who have been living in Seattle, Wash., are in town for a visit with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Durden, on Vernon Woods drive. Their future address will be Washington, D. C., where they will go after their visit here.

A THREE-WEEK TRIP to Massachusetts is in store for Mrs. Robert B. Church Jr., who will leave during the weekend. She will divide her time between visits with her brother, Roy Pedersen in Boston, and in Ipswich, where she will meet her husband for a stay with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Church.

MISS EUNICE JOHNSON has set her legal sights on Philadelphia, where she will attend the convention of the American Bar Assn. next week. The Atlantan leaves here Friday for the Quaker City and will be joined there by her friend, Traffic Court Judge Helen Ceresse of Chicago. They plan to visit Washington, D.C., after the convention.

FAMILY AND FRIENDS of James K. Fancher Jr. are visiting him at St. Joseph's Infirmary where he is recovering from an appendectomy.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES ALLAIN of Franklin, La., who have been vacationing at Miami Beach, Fla., and Havana, Cuba, are expected in Atlanta today for a visit with Mrs. Allain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Reid on Buckingham circle.

The Reids have been proud baby sitters for their four grandchildren, Charles, Reid, Brent and Mark Allain, while their parents have been away. The Allain family will return to Franklin within a few days.

FAMOUS DAYTONA BEACH, FLA., has been the vacation spot of Mrs. Harry Cover, Mrs. L. G. Arnold, Mrs. O. H. Jackson and Mrs. Robert Lamkin, who drove down for a vacation.

PARTY PLANS ARE UNDER WAY by Mrs. Charles Meriwether and Mrs. Jule Felton for a tea they are planning for Sept. 1 for Miss Genevieve Riley of Rome, N.Y.

The affair takes place at the Meriwether home on Rivers road and will be one of the many social events marking the Southern visit of Miss Riley with her sister, Mrs. Howard Smith. The two sisters are now in Florida but are expected home in a few days.

MRS. C. E. DAUGHTRY is in Berkeley, Calif., visiting her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Daughtry. She will be joined later by Mr. Daughtry and they will sail in early September for the Hawaiian Islands to attend the general convention of the Episcopal Church.

Half-Size Means Cut of Dress, Not the Size of the Wearer

New York Times News Service, Special to The Constitution
NEW YORK, Aug. 17—In the tricky terminology of women's clothing sizes, a half size is not meant to fit a half-sized woman at all, but a mature figure of short stature.

The buyer at one large department store puts it this way: A half-size is one in which the length from shoulder to waistline and from waist to hemline is shorter than in misses' sizes; also, in half-sizes the width of the shoulder is narrower and the proportions of the waistline and hipline a little wider.

A misses-size figure is one that ranges from 5 feet 5 inches to 5 feet 9 inches tall, while the half-size figure is 5 feet 5 inches and under. Consequently, a misses' size 14 measures 16½ inches from neck to waist, but a size 14½ measures 16 inches. Where the size 14 is 46½ inches from neck to hem the 14½ measures 45 inches.

The few inches involved can make a great difference in fit, and the buyer interviewed expressed the wish that more women would try half-sizes and perhaps save themselves substantial alteration costs.

The extent of the female population that will fit into the average half-size is considerable, and not by any means limited to women of later years. By government calculations 530 of 2,250 women surveyed between the ages of 30 and 40 were candidates for half-sizes (about a fourth, by a laymen's calculations). Of the women aged 41 to 60, 791 of 2,343 surveyed were half-size prospects (more than a fourth by anyone's figures).

POOL PARTY—Miss Charlotte Ester, left, and Miss Joan Ester of Okmulgee, Okla., are served refreshments by Mrs. Minor Gardner who entertained at a swimming party and luncheon for them at the home of Mrs. Hicks Lanier on Arden road, N.W. The girls, with their mother, Mrs. Everett Ester, are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Clyde Roberts.

Too Young for Responsibilities

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I am a 16-year-old girl and have a very serious problem.

Nine months ago I met a boy and a month later we started going steady. We love each other very much.

My mother decided I shouldn't go with him because she says I am too young to get serious—so last month we ran away to be married. But we couldn't get married without our parents' signature because we are too young and we had to come back home.

Mother was very angry and said if we wanted to get married we could but for me never to come back home or try to see her again. I don't think she is being fair, do you? Do you think I will be making a mistake if I get married? Please help me.

UNDECEID.

I do not blame your mother

Pilot Club In Monroe Is Saluted

MONROE, Aug. 17—The importance of women to the civic growth of a community was spotlighted in an address by J. L. McGarity, president of the Monroe-Walton County Chamber of Commerce, on the occasion of the first anniversary dinner of the Monroe Pilot Club.

McGarity lauded the organization for its work during the past year, joining various civic clubs in honoring the city's youngest organization. Held in the American Legion dining hall, the formal dinner was attended by some 70 persons, including representatives from the Winder and Athens Pilot groups.

Special guests were representatives of the Kiwanis, Rotary, Optimist, and Lions clubs, with their wives; representatives of the American Legion, Junior Woman's Club, the Junior Service League and Mayor and Mrs. L. C. McGarity.

During the year, the Pilot Club concentrated its efforts toward sponsoring a Youth Center for the city and a bookmobile unit. The club purchased for the Youth Center a record player and supply of records and hired the services of a dance instructor to hold regular dancing classes for Monroe's teenagers.

Club members participated in various service fund-raising drives, including house-to-house canvassing in the polio and Red Cross campaigns.

The 23-member organization has elected a new slate of officers, headed by Mrs. Dorothy Gilpin, president. Other officers are Mrs. Lou Daws, first vice president; Mrs. Frances Ford, second vice president; Mrs. Margaret Mitchell, recording secretary; Mrs. Kate Mathews, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Ruby Doster, treasurer.

Mrs. Josephine Whitley is the outgoing president.

VALDOSTA, GA. "I have two sons who are druggists and they advised me to take Anaro as I had been constipated and over-weight for twenty years and had tried various medicines with practically no result. After taking 2 bottles of Anaro I have lost 7 lbs. and feel much better." So writes Mrs. P. L. Pittman, 907 N. Patterson St.

Inexpensive Anaro, the original grapefruit juice recipe way to reduce is proven by thousands of your Georgia neighbors. Satisfaction with the first bottle or manufacturer will refund your money. No starvation diets with Anaro—at all druggists.

for being upset but I do not approve of her attitude regarding this problem. I think she would have been much wiser to try to reason with you and explain why she thinks you are too young to be married.

In my opinion, you will be making a serious mistake if you get married now. You are too young to cope with the responsibilities of married life. This is not only my opinion but also the reason why there are laws to prevent young people from marrying too young.

My advice is to wait at least another year or two before considering marriage again. In the meantime, you will become more mature and be much more capable of deciding what you really want out of life.

Dear Mrs. Ricker: There is a boy who lives across the street whom I love very much. Although he is engaged I can't forget him. I try to concentrate on other boys but that doesn't help.

I've even talked to a priest about it. He advised me to see other boys and I did, but I still can't get this boy out of my mind. Please, please help me before I do something I'll regret. I need advice badly and I'm terribly mixed up.

DESPERATE.

You didn't mention your age but I presume you are a teen-ager since you wrote to me. I am very sorry that I cannot offer you an easy solution to your problem and it is most unfortunate if you love someone who doesn't love you.

However, it doesn't mean that your life is ruined or that you will never love again, although I imagine you think so now.

You must first realize that your problem is not yours alone and sincerely try to help yourself. Other boys and girls in this same situation have suffered, of course, but have gotten over it. And, as you know, time cures a lot of things, including unrequited love.

My advice is much like that of your priest. Date other boys and force yourself to at least give the outward appearance of having a good time. You can do it, if you will try.

This column is conducted for teen-agers and their parents. Letters can be answered through the column only—as soon as time and space permit. Write your problems to Dorothy Ricker, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Call Off the Autopsy

These have been gayer days for the Atlanta Crackers. The autopsy has been called off. A flicker of life was discovered in the old body, and while recovery has not been rapid, it has been consistent and it is no longer a bore to spend an evening at Ponce de Leon Park.

The return of purposeful play came with Clyde King's return to the clubhouse. He had left as a pitcher whose right arm had lost it. He came back the manager. It wasn't a situation that promised a great deal, unless the right kind of men were involved.

In the early days of King's return, several Crackers went to him with pledges of fullest performance. King promised nothing in return except hard work. He rewarded the pledges with several hours of overtime, consisting of batting practice, footwork, and meeting after meeting concerning the finer points of baseball.

There was a chance the Crackers had sunk to such a low state they'd never respond. A time or two, such as in the last series in New Orleans, you sensed that King was ready to concede. On one miserable night the Crackers managed to perform so poorly that one New Orleans columnist observed "this condition is alarming to the rest of the league."

Ray Rippelmeyer, who has been King's staunchest pitcher, brought them back. He was a loser to Bob Purkey, but the score was 2-1 and the quality of the big Missouri right-hander's work was spectacular. The Crackers followed this up with a flourishing two-victory finish to the Mobile series. They concluded the road trip in Nashville with their greatest performance in many weeks.

They knocked down the Vols in Sulphur Dell twice on the same afternoon, both times in extra innings and both times the pitching was the stuff you dream about. They could then come home to face the stern features of the Donce de Leon devotees who won't swear off baseball just because of a seventh-place standing.

—Three Crackers Carried a Load

There was a time in King's early days on duty that only three Crackers appeared to be carrying their load. Rippelmeyer had appointed himself the man in charge of pitching complete games. He wasn't always winning, but into the deep pit of winter I'll remember warmly some of his Spartan work when nothing else it seemed could save. Paul Rambone pulled on the catching gear and took up that station with courage and passing finesse while Jack Parks recuperated and Jim Solt slunk off over the horizon. Bob Thorpe became the man in charge of offense. He struck deadly blows when nobody else was hitting. He did his job in the outfield with no static.

On these three the Crackers survived until the rest of the troops recuperated from their sleeping sickness. Murray Wall began to pitch with honor again, and with some horrifying luck. Bob Giggle came on fast. Glenn Thompson joined up with the gang, and in Nashville threw the finest game of his season last Sunday.

Out in the bullpen, Andy Bratkovitz took the lead. Mike Clark began to warm up to the situation, and Tuesday night announced his arrival among the producers. Bill George has been in and out, but he threw in his bit with the bullpen crew, and the pitching is now as good as there is in the league.

Even the losing labor of Monday evening could hardly be charged to the pitchers. The infield was having one of its stupified nights. The defense in general was something less than proud, and everybody around the horn joined in on the sour note. New papa Wall should have been a winner instead of a guy charged with another incomplete game.

—A Candidate to Succeed Himself

What is more important, though, the Crackers came back to the factory Tuesday night and labored like champions. King could be pretty sure that his tonic had worked. The Crackers looked, acted and played like a ball club.

They looked also as if they enjoyed their work. I looked up one time and saw all three outfielders jogging jauntily to their positions. This was an improbable scene before the change.

They aren't moving anywhere now. They might catch Nashville. But eight laps out of the first division with 23 games to play doesn't leave much of a margin for error. Point is, though, they've come out of their cloak of indifference. Baseball seems to matter to them again, and winning and losing. When they came out from under a four-run debt Tuesday night, caught the Chattanooga Lookouts and held them until they could get the big run home for Clark, it was one of the most inspiring treats of the season.

Now they can play for whatever honor is left, and for next season. A nigardly standing doesn't remove the incentive from a ball player. He's always got his next contract to keep in mind. And with King, the finish is most important. He's a candidate to succeed himself in 1956.

Bosox Shock Yanks With Five-Hitter, 7-1

Piersall, Hatton Triples Key Five-Run Uprising

BOSTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—The resilient Boston Red Sox cut the New York Yankees' American League lead to one game tonight with a 7-1 victory on Ike Delock's five-hit pitching and stand-up triples by Grady Hatton and Jim Piersall which opened the gates for a five-run inning.

TRIBE TRAINER BOCK HELPS EVERS OFF FIELD Behind Bock Al Lopez Followed Injured Indian

FOUL BALL SERIOUSLY INJURES EVERS' EYE

DETROIT, Aug. 17 (AP)—Veteran outfielder Hoot Evers of the Cleveland Indians was injured seriously today when struck on the right eye by a foul ball while batting.

Evers, a recent addition to the Indians after a long career with the Detroit Tigers, New York Giants and Baltimore, was taken to Detroit Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Alfred Whitaker said tonight Evers will be hospitalized for at least three days. "The injury is fairly severe," Dr. Whitaker said, "but Evers will not lose his eyesight." Evers appeared at bat as a pinch hitter in the sixth inning against the Detroit Tigers. He took one strike then fouled a pitch off the handle of his bat.

"It struck him flush on the eye," Cleveland Manager Al Lopez said.

Evers had to be helped from the field.

The eyelid was cut, but Dr. Whitaker said there appeared no sign of permanent injury.

Lookouts Beat Crax With Six Runs in 11th

Luttrell's Grand-Slam Homer Leads Uprising; Currie Quells Atlanta; Thorpe Clouts 18th

By JESSE OUTLAR

A six-run strafing of Murray Wall in the 11th, featuring Lyle Luttrell's grand-slam homer, and last-out relief pitching by Bill Currie supplied Chattanooga a slam-bang 11-7 victory over Atlanta Wednesday night.

The Lookouts, closing out their eighth with their last-inning volley. However, the Crackers didn't surrender until ex-Cracker Currie strolled out of the bullpen to whiff Paul Rambone with the bases jammed for the final out. Bob Thorpe's No. 18 homer with one on had started the futile Cracker comeback in the home half of the 11th.

A car night crowd of 3,550, watching Clyde King's men stage their fifth overtime production in five days, witnessed just about everything that can happen in a baseball game.

For the second night in a row, the Crackers rubbed out an early Lookout advantage, closing a 4-1 gap with a three-run shot in the seventh. Chattanooga reclaimed the lead with a run in the eighth, but the Crackers got it back in their half.

So they went into overtime for the second straight night, but the Lookouts, who had bowed 6-5 in 12 rounds Tuesday, came out on top this time.

Though Luttrell's 350-foot wallop was the big blow for the Lookouts, it was a little hit by Frank Sacka, which started Wall towards his 13th loss in 23 decisions.

Don Grate, the previous night's goat, started the winning spree with a single. Grate and Frank Conley Out Of Lineup For Season?

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17 (AP)—Lanky Gene Conley, top moundsman for the Milwaukee Braves, may be lost for the rest of the season. Conley pitched batting practice here last evening and suffered a recurrence of his shoulder injury that kept him out of the lineup for almost a month.

"It's doubtful whether Gene will pitch any more this year," said Manager Charlie Grimm. "At least right now I don't intend to use him and take a chance on his future."

Big Gene, 11 and 7 for the season, was ailing with a stiff shoulder for some time.

Sifford Sizzles
In Canada Open

TORONTO, Aug. 17 (AP)—Charlie Sifford, little known 33-year-old pro from Philadelphia, tore the Weston Golf Club course apart today for a record-equaling, nine-under-par 63 and a one-stroke lead in the first round of the Canadian Open Golf Championship.

The stocky Sifford who has just managed to "make breakfast money" in three years on the tournament trail, turned in his brilliant score in mid-afternoon. It held up as the low score of the first day although Arnold Palmer, 1954 U. S. amateur champion from Latrobe, Pa., came through with a 64. Sifford put his score together with a 31-32 while Palmer had a pair of 32s.

The tournament's one-round record was set by Ed Poryk Oliver of Lemont, Ill., in 1947 at Montreal. Bob Rosburg of San Francisco equaled it last year at Vancouver.

This opening round of the 72-hole, $15,000 tournament erupted into a free-for-all as most of the leading American and Canadian pros clobbered the 6,428-yard course. More than 40 came in with under-par cards. Another score equaled the par 72.

Defending champion Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon wasn't in the select crowd, however. He wound up with a 75, almost beyond recall.

Sifford fired nine birdies and never was over par at any hole. He had 11 one-putts, greens, six on the first nine.

Palmer also had nine birdies, but blew his chance to equal Sifford's round when he went one over par on the 435-yard, par 4 18th. His drive landed in the rough next to a tree. It took him three strokes to gain the green.

Freddie Hawkins of St. Andrews, Ill., and Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga came home with 66s, tying Stan Leonard of Vancouver for third place.

The diminutive Jerry Barber, the seasoned shotmaker from Los Angeles, came in with a 67 with a rousing ace on the 130-yard, par 3 fourth hole.

Macon Faces Auburn In Little League Finals

By MICKEY LOGUE
Constitution Sports Writer

ROME, Aug. 17—Little League All-Star teams from Macon and Auburn, Ala., cleared semifinal hurdles here Wednesday afternoon to set the stage for a showdown between "neighbors" for the Region 5 championship.

Beltin' Bobby Mathews, at 12 years Macon's old reliable, provided the power and pitching as the Georgians trounced Pducah, Ky., 10-1.

Auburn's swatters, who failed to get a hit off three opposing tossers, followed O'Neal Whitman's firing to a 3-0 victory over Gastonia, N.C.

The titlists from adjoining states meet Thursday at 5 p.m. at Buck Ransom Field for the Southeastern crown and a spot in the small-fry World Series at Williamsport, Pa.

Mathews, a slim, poker-faced right-hander, fanned eight, walked none and gave up only four hits. He also smashed a base-loaded homer high over the center-field wall in the fourth inning and singled. Another round-tripper by Mathews put the Georgians by Jackson, Tenn., 1-0, in first-round action.

Auburn 030 000-3 9 1
Gastonia 000 000-0 6 2
Whitman and Wilson, Nolen, Davis (2), Millsaps and Brown
Macon 240 400-10 9 3
Pducah 000 001-1 1 7
Mathews and Young, Bradford, Taylor (4) and Taylor, Peck (4).

Hoosier Carmichael Grabs Jaycee Lead

Rodgers Stroke Back at 66;
Foote Has 67, Cops Medal

By BERT PRATHER
Constitution Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17—Sam Carmichael, a husky 16-year-old from Martinsville, Ind., made a shambles of Columbus Country Club's par with a blistering 34-31-65 to grab the first-round lead in the 10th International Jaycee Junior Golf Championship here Wednesday.

But even this great seven-under-par performance left him with only a one-stroke working margin as the 106-player field goes into the second round of this 72-hole medal play tournament Thursday morning.

Breathing right down the Hoosier Boy's neck was Phil Rodgers, San Diego, Calif., star, who turned in a 34-32-66.

Third was held down by still another Californian, Dick Foote of Santa Ana, who trimmed five strokes off the 6,537-yard par 72 layout with a 31-33-67. In addition to landing him in a contenting position in the title chase, Foote's round earned him the qualifying medal.

The Santa Ana boy had tied with Percy Massey of Durham, N. C., and Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, at 144 for the medal Tuesday. Nicklaus had a 74 Wednesday and Massey a 72.

Deane Beman, Bethesda, Md., stood fourth with 35-34-69. Cobby Ware of Augusta headed Georgia's four entries with a 36-34-70. This placed him in a tie for fifth with Jack Rule of Waterloo, Iowa.

Georgia's other entries also showed well. William Adams and Frank Eldridge, both posted even par 72's, while John Dekle of Statesboro had a 75.

Nine boys broke par and seven matched it. The course was eased up considerably Wednesday, the tee markers being up front and the pins in the middle of the greens. However, pin-placer Charlie Harper, host club pro, said the course would be toughened for the second round.

Defending champion Allen Ge-berger of Santa Barbara, Calif., had to settle for 36-36-72, while big Bill Dunn, the USGA Junior champ from Duncan, Calif., posted a 36-37-73.

Carmichael, who qualified with a 72-72-144, was a real sleeper. He has never won anything except home invitationals and sectional tournaments around his hometown.

Rodgers, runnerup in last year's tournament, collected birds at nine, eight, 13 and 17 and wedged in from 40 yards for an eagle duce on No. 12. Foote tapped in six birdies and bogied the long 17th.

But Wednesday was his day. He started with a birdie four on the first hole. He went two under when a 10-footer fell for a birdie three on the second hole. His only bogey came on the par-four No. 3 where he trapped his approach. Another 10-footer at eight gave him a birdie three and he turned in 31.

Carmichael really cranked up on the back nine, reeling off straight birdie threes on 10, 11 and 12 and canning a 20-footer for an eagle three on 13.

Smallwood Anchors Tough Smith Line

Kimmel Rates Big Center
As 'Better Than Cunningham'

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Football backs who think running into a brick wall is fun will have a delightful evening when Smith High is the foe this season.

Coach Lloyd Kimmel has backfield troubles of his own, but he has a forewall that figures to mete out grief to other people's backfields, too.

The Hill Street Smithies, who probably are "a year away" as only seven squadmen are seniors, will field a starting line that averages 188 pounds per man and embraces several of the finest prospects in the City League.

First, there's Center Franklin Smallwood, 190-pound converted tackle. When Kimmel says, "I believe he'll be as good as anyone in the state and perhaps will be the best center we ever had, including Leon Cunningham," he's saying a very big mouthful.

There hasn't been a better center hereabouts since Cunningham went away to win All-America mention at University of South Carolina. And, Smallwood is just a junior.

Another in a series of Constitution prep football previews.

It was apparent last year when Ted Echols was a soph that the 6-5, 200-pounder was destined to become a really exceptional end. Tommy Shadix, 6-3, 160 and a soph, will be his running mate. And, as pass snappers at least, it is doubtful any Region 3-AA team can match the pair.

Tackle Jerry Naddra (200) was honorable mention for All-Region in 1954 and figures to be a top performer. Kenneth Pye, converted fullback, will throw his 195 pounds around at the other tackle, Mike McKool (185), who will do the punting again, and Carl Turner (185) were first string guards last trip. They're bigger and better.

Eugene Gregory (170), who'll be at left half, is a proven and powerful runner. He's a dangerous lad on punt returns, an excellent defensive safety man.

But—and it's an important but—the remainder of the backfield is strictly question mark stuff. Senior Kenneth Warren (165) will be at full, and Jack Smith (160) and Jack Chalmers (170) are battling for the right half slot. Smith, who will co-captain the team with Naddra and Gregory, was an end and first string linebacker last trip. Chalmers a guard.

Quarterback is the real trouble spot. Bill McDaniel was lost to wedding bells. Gene Whitfield, a real comer, looks like the boy but it's a tremendous job for a mere freshman to handle. Kimmel has one offensive ace in the hole though, Larry Born, who booted a 27-yard field goal against Southwest, is back. He'll handle extra point chores, too.

1955 SMITH ROSTER

Satterfield Upsets Big Nino Valdes

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP)—Bob Satterfield, giving up 32 pounds in weight and a half-foot in height, blasted giant Nino Valdes to the floor in a savage last round to-night but could not keep the bleeding Cuban there and settled for a unanimous 10-round decision.

The crowding, lashing Satterfield, a 3-1 underdog, appeared firing in the last four rounds as the two heavyweights maulled each other trying to land their knockout sledges and end the televised Chicago Stadium brawl. But suddenly, the Chicago Negro uncloaked a left hook that caught Valdes flush on the jaw and followed with a whistling right to the face.

Valdes' plopped to the canvas and his haunches. He was up at the count of five but took a mandatory eight count.

Satterfield bulled in, his fists flailing at the Cuban's face, now a mass of blood that flowed from his mouth and nose. But Valdes weathered the siege and at the bell was throwing all of his 215 pounds behind his punches in one final attempt to connect.

Softball State Meet Opens Today

MARIETTA, Ga., Aug. 17 (AP)—A battle royal among seven district champions will open tomorrow night at Larry Bell Park for the Georgia amateur softball pennant.

The noncom officers club of Dobbins Air Force Base is sponsoring the double elimination competition which will continue through Monday.

The opening round will pit Columbus Mfg. Co. against the Rome American Legion at 7:00 p.m.; Dobbins AFB vs. Belk Matthews, Macon, 8:15, and Cairo All Stars vs. Harry's Auto Parts, Rome, 9:30. Athens, the seventh team, drew a first round bye and will not get into action until Friday.

The Dobbins - Belk Matthews encounter shapes up as potentially one of the keenest of the meet. Dobbins has three of the most brilliant hurlers in the league to send against the Maconites. Ferris Elders, formerly of Rome, probably will start. Standing in by order will be Whitley Sibril, a veteran of Air Force tournaments, and Jim Cranford, an ex-Lindale ace.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 17—First graduation and now scholastic difficulties have deprived the 1955 Georgia Bulldogs of last year's number one and two place kicking specialists.

Charlie Madison of course ran out of eligibility at the end of the season. Now it's definite that Joe Graff, extra-point man and field goal booter, won't be back at Georgia this fall. The substitute guard failed to carry out his academic assignments as well as he did his kicking duties and has been removed from the Bulldog lineup.

Last year Graff hit four out of four extra points attempted. He also scored two field goals—one against Georgia Tech and another that proved to be the margin of victory in Georgia's 16-14 tussle with Vanderbilt. Madison made good in six out of seven attempts.

Tech, Georgia Plan 'Photo Day' Aug. 31

Auburn Sets Aside Sept. 6
For 'Open Stadium' Session

While Georgia and Georgia Tech, faced with opening football games just 17 days after the first allowable training day, will hold "meet-the-boys-and-take-pictures" days Wednesday, August 31, the men of the Plain will busy themselves with barbecue at Auburn that day.

The Tigers' first game is against Chattanooga's Moccasins Sept. 24, and as they plan their open-stadium day for Sept. 6.

However, with the big double-header at Grant Field Sept. 16 looming, Coach Wallace Butts wanted to get the niceties over as early as possible so he can concentrate on preparing for Ole Miss. Likewise, Coach Bobby Dodd needs plenty of time for hard work without pressdorm and fanfare to ready a team for Miami and the NCAA televised game of the week.

So, SEC commissioner Bernie Moore told the two coaches their squads can don uniforms a day early, for picture-taking purposes, without using up a day of practice. In the past no teams have been allowed to issue uniforms before Sept. 1.

At Auburn, athletic director Jeff Beard said a barbecue and get-together for the team and coaches is planned for Aug. 31, and some drills will be held before picture-taking day the following Tuesday.

In Athens, Butts said that the players will gather in Sanford Stadium at 2 p.m., Aug. 31, and be available to newsmen, photographers and football fans alike.

"This is the first time, we believe, any college in the conference has opened the doors to all fans to take pictures of the squad and individual pictures of the players," Butts said. "We believe it will prove very popular with everyone."

Cedartown Plans Doug Sanders Welcome Group

A huge delegation of overjoyed Cedartown people will be at the Atlanta airport Thursday to provide Doug Sanders, their latest sports idol, with a gala "Welcome Home."

Sanders, in top form, captured the Tam O'Shanter All-American and World's Amateur golf crowns Sunday in Chicago.

The welcome celebration, sponsored by all nine Cedartown civic clubs, will consist of a parade and testimonial dinner, and Sanders will be escorted from Atlanta by the Chamber of Commerce, city and county officials.

Malooof Named Smithie Aide

George Malooof, former star Georgia Tech fullback and Marist end, has been named an assistant football coach at Atlanta Smith High.

Malooof, who already has started coaching at Smith, was an All-America and All-State selectee after a starring 1948 year at Marist. He finished his Tech career with a top performance against The University of Georgia in 1952.

The native Atlantan has been in the Army since.

Cotton Mixed; Trading Slow

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 17 cents a bale higher to 40 cents over today.

A lack of fresh developments in the cotton crop and export situations tended to curtail trading interest.

Liquidation and light hedging were well taken in near months through mild buying and short covering. Switching from nearby October to later months was fairly active as spot houses transferred hedge positions forward.

Distant positions closed lower, reflecting nervousness over possible further changes in the cotton program by Congress next year.

Experts Differ On Possibility Of Depression

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Aug. 17 (AP)—Two leading economists said last night there is no likelihood of another depression of the 1929 type, but an Indiana University economist said it could happen.

Dr. Arthur Upgren, dean of the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration, Dartmouth College, said so many structural improvements have been made in the nation's economy in the past 25 years that no depression could "do the damage it did in 1929."

Dr. John K. Langum, president of Business Economics, Inc., and former vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank at Chicago, said "We're not going to have another 1929," but added that a recession of the 1937 or 1938 level could lie ahead.

Dr. Robert Turner, professor of business administration at the Indiana University School of Business, called the present boom the "least healthy" of any since World War II and warned of "an unstable crash" of the 1929 type unless steps are taken to restrain the boom's "inflationary, debt-financed aspects."

Turner was a member of former President Truman's council of economic advisers. The three took part in a panel discussion on the economic outlook at the 13th annual graduate school of the American Savings and Loan Institute on the Indiana University campus.

Upgren said the nation's newly acquired economic stabilizers which would prevent a serious depression included old-age pensions, unemployment compensation, housing demand of more than a million units a year, lower tariffs promoting foreign trade, a more liquid banking system and "the most powerful federal fiscal system in the world."

Orders for New Freight Cars Up 4th Month in Row

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Orders for new freight cars in July leaped to 18,007 compared with 13,365 in June, the American Railway Car Institute and the Assn. of American Railroads announced jointly today.

It was the fourth straight monthly increase in freight car orders. The July total also compared with the July 1954 total of only 883 cars ordered.

Deliveries of new freight cars, however, fell to 2,192 in July from 3,015 in June and 4,083 in May. Deliveries in July 1954 were 1,801.

The result was that the backlog of cars on order but undelivered rose to 42,888 as of Aug. 1 compared with 27,102 on July 1 and 16,886 on June 1. The backlog stood at 12,889 on Aug. 1, 1954.

Wholesale Prices Of Food Dip Some

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet index declined a trifle this week.

The index stood at 36.23 compared with 36.24 a week ago and 37.07 in the same week of 1954.

The index represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound of each of 31 foods in general use.

Goods rising in price included hams, bellies, lard, butter, eggs, potatoes, raisins, steers and hogs. Lower were flour, wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley, coffee, cottonseed oil, cocoa, beans, rice and lamb.

Major N.Y. Bank Calls Payment On Broker Loans

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—For the first time in two years, a major New York bank called for payment today of broker loans based on security collateral.

News that Guaranty Trust Co. was exercising its call privileges raced through financial circles. "We just needed the funds," a spokesman for Guaranty said. "We have been experiencing a very active demand for money lately."

The bank spokesman said the amount of loans called was less than 20 million dollars. He added there was no indication any further calls would be made immediately.

Loans made to brokers against customer or firm collateral are nominally on a day-to-day demand basis. Not since 1953 has a major New York bank exercised its call. At that time credit was quite tight and several banks called loans freely.

Business in Brief

Directors of Georgia Power Co. Wednesday elected Roy Harwell and Charles Ratterree assistant secretaries. Harwell, a native of Atlanta, joined the company's engineering department in 1919. He is now property tax agent.

Ratterree, also an Atlanta native, started with Georgia Power in 1937. He is currently manager of its stock transfer department.

James M. Oliver, vice president and general manager of Georgia Power Co., received a wrist watch and emblem Wednesday in recognition of 40 years of continuous service with the power firm and its associated companies. President Harwell Branch Jr. made the presentation. A native of Alabama, Oliver started with the Alabama Power Co., joining Georgia Power in 1927. He was elected a vice president in 1944 and was named general manager in 1951.

Network radio advertising declined 7.6 per cent last year, but all other categories showed an increase. Network TV was up 32.6 per cent, newspapers up 1.9 per cent, direct mail up 9.4 per cent and outdoor advertising up 6 per cent. Farm publications showed a gain of 3.2 per cent and magazines 0.1 per cent.

$8.5 Billion Ad Volume Seen; Newspapers, TV Top Field

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Advertisers will spend more money in 1955 than in any other year on record, Printer's Ink, magazine of the advertising trades, said today.

With the exception of network radio, all media are sharing in the increase with newspapers and television "leading the race," the magazine said.

Last year, it pointed out, advertising expenditures climbed to an all-time high of more than eight billion dollars; this year the total is likely to shoot past the 8½-billion-dollar mark. Volume for the first half of 1955 has been running 11 per cent above the year-ago level.

Final reports for 1954 show national advertising up 6½ per cent from 1953 to $4,811,900,000 and local advertising up 3½ per cent to $3,352,000,000. The grand total for 1954 is $8,164,000,000. That's 5.3 per cent greater than the 1953 total of $7,735,000,000.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Slow selling prevailed Wednesday in the cotton textile market. This was the case in cloth, broadcloth and sheeting sections. However, power of dry goods reported a moderate pick-up in demand, with moderate sales made for fourth-quarter delivery. Additional mills in the South raised wages generally by 5 cents an hour.

In wool goods, recording of cloth for fall delivery was light. Merchants expected mills will maintain prices at present levels, even though prices may be lower when the Australian wool auction will resume on August 29.

Wool goods small quantities of acetate taffetas and satins were sold.

GEORGIA BUSINESS

2nd Quarter Boom Extends Into 3rd

By JIM MONTGOMERY

A record second quarter for American business. That's what government officials in Washington reported this week.

Total production of goods and services in April, May and June rose to a record annual rate of $385 billion, $10 billion above the previous record set in the first three months of this year.

And it was $16 billion higher than the peak gross national product reached in the record year of 1953.

Most major segments of the economy are said to have shared in the growth of production of goods and services which marked the second quarter.

This period's production volume of $27 billion topped the year-ago rate of output by 7.5 per cent, and personal income advanced by $7 billion, setting a new record annual rate.

The public spurred the growth in national output by turning most of the increase in personal income into purchase of goods and services.

Most of the quarter's $5 billion advance in personal consumption went into food, clothing and services.

Thus, American business enjoyed a fabulous period of increasing prosperity. But what of the third quarter of 1955, already half over?

Following traditional patterns, any decline this year would have to come in the July-September period. For the last quarter, with Christmas shopping setting a strong pace in November and December, is normally one of the best.

So far in this quarter, there is little indication of any weakness—especially in consumer spending.

Dun & Bradstreet estimated that the nation's retail trade volume last week bettered the year-ago level by from 6 to 10 per cent.

Dollar volume in the South, it said, rose 7 to 11 per cent. In Atlanta, department store sales in the four weeks ended Aug. 6 were running 15 per cent ahead of the same 1954 period, according to Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta figures.

Sales for the year to date here are up 14 per cent.

Furthermore, Atlanta's rate of increase in department store sales over last year leads all other reporting metropolitan areas in the Sixth District.

Sales for the Sixth District as a whole, running 10 per cent above last year, have increased as much as in any other part of the country (three other districts are doing as well) and more than in most.

Nationally, department store sales are better than a year ago by 10 per cent in the four weeks ended Aug. 6 and by 7 per cent for the year to date.

There would seem to be little more time left, then, for 1955 to be anything but the new record year in American business history—ending the reign of 1953 in that spot.

U. S. Business Failures Drop Sharply

Another indication of this year's continuing prosperity: Dun & Bradstreet reported a sharp decline in commercial and industrial failures to 169 across the nation in the week ended Aug. 11 from 213 the preceding week. Casualties in the South Atlantic states were down to 16 from 24. Business failures so far this year have averaged 218 a week, compared with 222 a week in 1954.

Chrysler Gets Bigger Sales Share

Automotive News reports that Chrysler Corp.'s new car sales in the first six months of 1955 accounted for 18.13 per cent of the market, compared with 13.88 per cent in the same period last year. But Ford Motor Co. sales, it said, slipped from 31.2 per cent of the six-month industry total last year to 26.58 per cent in the first half of 1955. GM increased its volume from 49.25 per cent to 50.24 per cent.

NBC Plans Series for Children

By VAL ADAMS

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
NEW YORK, Aug. 17—The publishing house of Simon & Schuster, Inc., will join with the National Broadcasting Co. in producing a television program for children.

The arrangement calls for 26 half-hour shows to be filmed in color. The series, which is titled Golden Time, will consist in part of material adapted from Golden Books and Golden Records, both issued by Simon & Schuster for children.

Golden Time will contain story telling by live performers, animated dramatizations and special instructional material of a do-it-yourself nature. The host for the series will be a character called the Golden Wizard, otherwise known as Mr. G. Wiz. He will be portrayed by Dickie Beals.

The network has proposed a fall debut for the program. It would be a weekly feature on either Saturday or Sunday mornings.

The production staff now at work on Golden Time includes Arthur Shimkin of Simon & Schuster, David Piel, motion picture director associated with Science Pictures, and Roger Muir, NBC producer. Mitch Miller of Columbia Records will be the musical director of the new series.

The Aluminum Co. of America has purchased the time period to be relinquished by Philco Television Playhouse on the NBC network after Oct. 2. Alcoa will sponsor a new drama series to be televised on alternate Sundays from 9 to 10 p.m. beginning Oct. 16.

Although the Philco show is produced under the supervision of Talent Associates, an independent producing company, the Alcoa production will be handled entirely by NBC.

The future of My Favorite Husband has been settled. Beginning late in September, it will resume over the Columbia Broadcasting System television network and be shown on Tuesdays from 10:30 to 11 p.m. Starring Vanessa Brown and Barry Nelson, the situation comedy will be sponsored by the Frigidaire Division of the General Motors Corp.

The NBC TV network announced it would put on a program that "spotlights the uncommon man and lets him speak for himself."

Titled People, a program of personality sketches narrated by Morgan Beatty, will be seen for five weeks beginning Sunday from 5 to 5:30 p.m. The network said its news crews were searching the world for people whose personalities, experiences, occupations or environments reflect information, education and entertainment.

BEAUTIFUL BAD GIRL—Newcomer Aura Norring will join the cast of the WSB radio Mr. District Attorney show at 7 p.m. Thursday portraying a beautiful villain whose talents almost cause the D.A. (David Brian) to miff a case of murder.

NBC Pays Tribute to Babe Ruth

By J. P. CHANLEY

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
NEW YORK, Aug. 17—On the seventh anniversary of his death, an impressive radio tribute to Babe Ruth was offered last night over the National Broadcasting Co. (WSB) network.

The 55-minute show, one of the Biographies in Sound series, offered recollections of the Babe by men who had known, worked and played with him. The presentation recalled many colorful incidents in his career.

Speakers on the show emphasized what the Babe had done for sports and for youngsters, but there was no attempt to gloss over some of his imperfections.

Babe's great appetite and his famous 1926 stomach ache; his disregard for speed laws when at the wheel of his car and his bitterness after he left the Yankees were recalled. Frank M. Stevens, the caterer, seemed to sum up Ruth's career most accurately when he said: "In a lot of ways he was like a little boy at a circus." Recollections were offered also by former Postmaster General James A. Farley, James T. Farrell, Waite Hoyt, Branch Rickey and Dr. Lubbert Pruitt, who before becoming a physician, pitched for the St. Louis Browns and often struck out the Babe.

Connection Made

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—Gene Klavan, panelist on NBC-TV's "Make the Connection," says one of his most embarrassing experiences took place in Washington, D.C., when he was doing a local TV show there. "While attending a crowded party," Gene says, "I bumped into a man and stepped on his toes. I was about to say I was sorry when the man turned around. He was one of the justices of the Supreme Court. He said, 'Oh, Gene Klavan, I was about to tell you how much I enjoy your show when some stupid old stepped on my toes.'"

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Can't Buy Allies, Says Talmadge

The United States is not going to make allies by letting the countries of the world "ride the backs" of the American taxpayer, former Gov. Herman Talmadge said here Wednesday.

Talmadge, speaking before the Airport Area Kiwanis Club in East Point, said this country's policy of using its economic wealth to win allies against communism is leading many nations to indulge in a "polite form of blackmail."

The former governor, who many predict will oppose Walter George in the 1956 senatorial elections, said people receiving our aid think we're trying to "operate like a Santa Claus and conduct a global WPA."

"This bootlegging on the part of our federal administration," Talmadge continued, "is bringing us a harvest of hate and ill will. 'Have you ever read in the Bible that friendship can be purchased with gold and silver?' he asked."

Talmadge said the value of the wartime lend-lease program ("nothing lent; nothing leased—a giveaway") was worth all its cost if it shortened the war by one day.

But he added continuation of the "giveaway" can mean only the "eventual bankruptcy of America."

Talmadge said England has a $120,000,000 budgetary surplus this year, which he said "we gave her $120,000,000." The U. S. same year, he continued, was $42,000,000.

He said the value of the wartime lend-lease program ("nothing lent; nothing leased—a giveaway") was worth all its cost if it shortened the war by one day.

But he added continuation of the "giveaway" can mean only the "eventual bankruptcy of America."

STUDYCADE TO VISIT U.N.—A group of 42 Georgians stopped in Atlanta Wednesday on a 10-day "Studycade to the United Nations," a trip directed by West Georgia College. Included (L-R) were Mrs. Irene Hay, Buford; Collis O. Johnson, Carrollton, assistant director of adult education at West Georgia College, and Tom Vassy, Carrollton.

NORTHSIDE NOTES

George Adolphus Honored By Sandy Springs Group

By BOB WILLIMON

George Adolphus, Sandy Springs postmaster for 25 years prior to his retirement in July, will be guest of honor at a meeting of the Sandy Springs Businessmen's Assn. at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Hammond School cafeteria.

Speakers for the meeting will include the Rev. Dr. L. B. Huston, the Rev. Dr. D. D. Shellnut, the Rev. Dr. James B. Vaughn and the Rev. Dr. Harold Minor, all local ministers.

Adolphus, a charter member of the association, will move to Florida shortly, according to Lee L. Baker, publicity chairman.

Scholarship Funds

The North DeKalb Kiwanis Club realized $407 from sponsorship of post-season productions by the Oglethorpe Players, club directors have announced.

The funds will be used to establish scholarships at Oglethorpe for deserving graduates of Chamber High School and other local educational institutions.

Name Changed

The Buckhead Merchant's Assn. has changed its name to the Buckhead Businessmen's Assn., Mrs. Mary Meier, an official of the organization, has announced.

Mrs. Meier said the 194-member association made the change so that doctors and other professional men may become members.

Mrs. Meier said the association is now studying ways and means of providing more extensive Christmas street lighting and decorations during the coming season.

FRIENDLY ENEMIES

Dr. Charles L. Allen, Atlanta minister and regular columnist for The Atlanta Constitution, discusses a new book, "Friendly Enemies," in his column on Page 4.

Atlantan Awarded $60,000

An Atlanta woman has been awarded a verdict of $60,000 in Jackson County Superior Court against the City of Commerce for personal damages, it was revealed Wednesday.

The verdict went to Mrs. Agnes Bradford of 297 Patterson Ave., S.E., a secretary for the Atlanta Board of Education. The amount was described by court officials as the largest ever awarded in the county. The case was tried Aug. 4.

Mrs. Bradford filed suit for $100,760 following a fall April 5, 1953, in front of the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Geraldine E. Owens, in Commerce. She contended she fell while walking over a walkway laid over a drainage ditch and suffered a broken hip which resulted in serious complications.

A non-suit was declared in the case last year. However, Mrs. Bradford's attorneys appealed and the case was reversed in the Court of Appeals. The State Supreme Court upheld the Court of Appeals.

Mrs. Bradford was represented by Kermit C. Bradford of Atlanta, and H. W. Davis and Jack Davidson of Commerce. The City of Commerce was represented by T. J. Sytan, city attorney, and the Wheeler, Robinson and Thurmond law firm.
